THE NINETEEN THIRTY ANNUAL

Volume XXXVII

Published by

THE SENIOR CLASS

of

Rockford Senior High School

Rockford, - Illinois

FOREWORD

To render to the students and faculty of Rockford Senior high school a means to help them recall the history of the year 1929-1930, the members of the R. H. S. Annual staff have published this book. They have attempted to make this a record based on the law of the Camp Fire, as nearly representative of the life of the school as possible.

Through pictures and write-ups, routine work and good times have been featured as well as special phases of the school curriculum.

DEDICATION

To Miss Mellie John, head of the English department of Rockford Senior high school, the staff of the 1930 Annual dedicates this book.

Miss John, through her willing endeavors to make the school life of all associated with her enjoyable and beneficial, has won the love and appreciation of all those who know her. She has always given her service gladly to those who have needed her help and has done it in a spirit of friendliness.

To one we loved—

MISS CORDELIA GUMMERSHEIMER

1893 — 1929

Seek Beauty

A happy person always is aware
Of beauty, and he seeks it as he goes:
He knows exhilaration of his soul
Results from seeking beauty in his life:
His path at times seems hard to tread and long,
But joyously he faces every task.
His eyes alert to spy some beauty there,
In everything, he knows it does exist.

Be Of Service

To carry succor to one in distress.
To aid a friend who truly needs some help.
Is such a sevice as shows character,
The finest and most splendid of all types.
In school each one receives a chance to help
Some friend or school-mate as he makes his way
Through difficulties he finds hard to solve.
So try now, be of service every day!

CARL AAGAARD

was elected by the members of the class of '30 as the boy who has rendered the most service to the school. Carl was editor of the Owl and a member of the debate team during his senior year as well as being a member of several clubs and a captain in R. O. T. C.

MARTHA CASTLE,
chosen by the class of '30 as the girl rendering the most service to the school has held many responsible positions during her high school career. She has served as president of A. B. L. and editor of the 1930 Annual during her senior year. Martha is also a member of the National Honor society and of the Quill and Scroll society.

Give Service

Giving service is an art which can be stimulated, cultivated, and practiced freely; Rockford High School offers vast and varied opportunities to youthful adherents of this art—those willing, conscientious, and artistic students.

The enthusiasts of service giving, realizing that they get out of a thing as much as they put into it, enter as many of the extra curricular activities as possible; among some of those opened to them are: the musical organizations—the Band, Orchestra, Glee clubs, and Honorary Musical Society; the literary clubs—A. B. L., Rab Authors, and Philos; the "R" Club, composed of athletes who have served their school so satisfactorily that they wear the coveted R; publications—the Owl and Annual which demand almost nightly sacrifices but which give such lasting satisfaction; debate with the oratorical demands upon its followers; language clubs —Spanish, Fasces, and French; Paint and Palette, and the Student Council, composed of students chosen by their classmates because of their leadership.

Biology Club

The Biology club is one of the oldest clubs in the school, having been organized in 1909. The club is composed of members from the botany and zoology classes. In its activities, the club seeks to further and create an interest in these two branches of the school curriculum. Field trips are perhaps its greatest interest. Last year a plan was enacted whereby the nearby forest preserves were visited through the aid and permission of the county forester, Mr. Tauge Lindquist. He has also furnished transportation for the members. The pupils have been allowed to collect specimens, and have made lists of the trees, shrubs, and herbs in the region. This activity has greatly increased the interest of the members.

During the winter, programs are substituted for the field trips. They consist of interesting talks on botanical and zoological subjects, music, games, and refreshments. This year a new feature was started in the club; namely, an orchestra which made its initial appearance during the second semester.

Another very important work of the club includes the care of the school gardens. The club assists the janitor by providing plants and money to aid in beautifying the school lawn.

To increase the interest in the club a point system has been introduced and successfully carried out. A certain number of points is given for being on a committee or on programs, paying a certain amount of money, acting as an officer, or working in the laboratory. The system helps determine the club leaders. At the close of the year the losers will treat the winners.

Chemistry Club

Chemistry club, a very live organization, has for its purposes promoting an interest in the science of chemistry and preparing its members for the coming age which will be the "Age of Chemistry." Students who are eligible for membership in this club are those who are taking or who have taken chemistry.

At every meeting of the club, at least part of the time is devoted to the conducting of experiments. Thus every member receives additional practice and knowledge from that gained in the class room.

The club is active in all school affairs, every year giving one of the spring assemblies. These assemblies are always a source of great interest to the student body, since at that time novel and unusual experiments are performed. The Chemistry club orchestra also takes part in these assemblies.

To make the members better acquainted with each other several social gatherings in the form of picnics and parties were held. Several candy sales were held during the year to help pay for the various activities of the club.

This year the classes as well as the club have jointly undertaken a very important and interesting project: the building of the "Chemical House." This is a miniature house, all the material for which has been made by chemical processes. This house was entered in a chemistry contest at the University of Illinois.

Fasces Club

The Fasces club is a Latin club whose name is derived from the Latin name, "Fasces," a symbolism of Roman times. Its actual meaning is an axe and a bundle of sticks which is significant of authority. The purpose of the club is to foster a greater interest in old Rome as well as in the Latin language through the Latin department. The membership is limited to those students who are at the time taking Latin. The club was organized in 1926 and since then has steadily grown both in interest and numbers, until it now includes about eighty active members. Meetings are held every two weeks.

The meetings this year have been especially interesting. Some of them included a study of the ancient buildings in Rome: Coliseum, Pantheon, an Arch of Titus; incidents of the World War, Roman Women, Saturnalia, and Ides of March. One important meeting was a meeting to commemorate the Virgil Bimillenium; at some others Roman dinners were held and a style show of Roman dress. One meeting was in the form of a broadcasting station. The Station was SPQR, broadcasting from the Palatine Hill, Rome. Romulus and Remus were the participants who took the place of "Amos and Andy." There is usually one social meeting held during the year.

The club has aided the library by purchasing several new books for the school. At Christmas time a basket was given to a poor family.

Le Cercle Français

The purpose of the Le Cercle Français, which was reorganized a year ago last fall is, to create and promote an interest in French literature and customs. The club studies the present day conditions in France and also the lives of famous Frenchmen, which study helps them to get a clearer insight into French literature.

To be a member of this club a student must have taken at least one semester of French and have received an average of eighty-five or above. At present there are about thirty-five members in the club. The meetings are held on every other Monday night.

All the business taken up at the club meetings is carried on in French, even the minutes and committee reports being read in that language. All of the programs are presented in French also. This is of great help to the student in his class-room, because he learns to express himself more fluently and to understand the spoken language better.

The programs consist of French stories, musical numbers, presentations of French plays, talks on French customs, French songs and the playing of French games. Usually the programs are presented by the club members themselves.

This year, during the first semester, the French club sponsored an afternoon party. The event proved to be very successful. Another accomplishment of the French club in the past year was to buy two pictures to be hung on the walls of the French room: "The Book Stalls in Paris" in Miss Sylvia Brewer's class room and "A Market Scene" in Miss Helen Loveless' room.

Paint and Palette Club

Members of the Art department sponsor the Paint and Palette club to induce a greater interest in Art among the students who are not associated with the department as well as those who are. Thus any student is eligible for membership.

At the majority of the meetings the craft problem, the application of enamel to glass, was discussed and worked upon; many shapes and sizes of jars and bottles were secured and painted in demonstrative designs with the lacquer.

Members held a successful afternoon party in the boys' gym during the first semester. Roy's orchestra played for the affair, which was open to the entire school. The "grab bag" party held at Christmas time was open only to members. Each member brought a ten cent present, the gifts being placed in a bag, and the drawing of the gifts following.

On January 24 the Art club of Rockford college gave an afternoon tea to which all the members of the Paint and Palette were invited. The College club presented a program of musical numbers and three "living pictures," famous paintings posed by the members of the club. The tea was held at the college art studio.

At a spring meeting a movie showing the life of Michael Angelo was shown.

Several members of the Paint and Palette were in the spring assembly sponsored by the art department. The students presented a pageant which was planned to emphasize the use of color in life.

Seco Club

In 1923 a group of Rockford high school girls met to form a club for furthering the interest in the study of Home Economics. It was decided that all girls in either sewing or cooking classes should be eligible for membership, and that a combination of the first two letters of the words sewing and cooking should form the club's title. In 1924, this organization became affiliated with the National Home Economics Association.

Seco club has varied programs. At the beginning of each semester this year a formal initiation and a banquet were held for the new members. At Christmas time, each girl furnished a box of home made candy which was presented to the ladies of the Jennie Snow home. The afternoon party, staged on February 11, was a great success; and the club's evening party, an affair of the second semester, was also well attended.

A tea was given in the spring for Junior high school girls, a custom which has been followed out for several years. Members of the club served at the Owl-Annual banquet on February 22.

All programs for the club are planned to be instructional. Several commercial demonstrations have been given, and at the meeting on February 18, members dressed dolls.

Many girls of the club participated in the assembly on November 18, which was put on by the Home Economics department in the form of a style show. Each model displayed garments which had been made by the girls in the department.

Rab Authors Club

To furnish inspiration and help for all students interested in creative writing and to promote interest in and enjoyment of good literature, the third literary organization of Rockford high school was founded.

For the past two years Rab Authors club has published an original book of verse, My Singing Soul. The 1929 edition of the book was rated All-American in the National Scholastic Press Association Contest.

During the year the club members have sponsored and edited the literary section of the Owl. Robert Warren, first semester president, was editor. Members of all English classes contributed material.

Each year members of Rab Authors enter material in the contests sponsored by Current Literature, Scholastics, and similar magazines. Many students received pen and pencil awards from Current Literature for excellency of material submitted. Richard Congleton and Josephine Armstrong had poetry published in The Gleam, a magazine publishing only the best of high school verse. Jerry Allaben won first prize of five dollars in an essay contest sponsored by the horticultural society of Winnebago County. The club sponsors its own poetry contest every spring.

Carl Sandburg's appearance in the Auditorium on November 18, Monday, was sponsored by both A. B. L. and Rab Authors. The members of Rab Authors managed the publicity; Arnold Liebling, Hymen Burstein, and Helen Christenson composed the committee.

Friday, March 14, was the date of the club's evening party for which the Philomatheans and Rab Authors merged. Rab Authors secured programs in the shape of shamrocks. Harold Acker and Josephine Armstrong were general chairmen from Rab Authors.

El Circulo Español

That a further interest in Spanish might be manifest, that a means might be provided for the students to speak Spanish outside of the classroom, and that the pupil's knowledge of the customs of the Spanish people might be increased El Circulo Español was formed by the students of the Spanish department.

All business meetings of the club are conducted in Spanish, and during the year Spanish parliamentary law has been studied, and closely observed in the meetings. All programs have been planned to further the purposes of the club.

La Estrellita, La Paloma, El Gancho, and other well known Spanish songs have been sung at the meetings, and many Spanish games have been played. The members have taken an exceedingly great interest in Rompecabezeas, Spanish crossword puzzles.

To acquaint the students with Spanish customs, travel talks, reviews of modern travel books, and Spanish plays have been presented. On February 10 a Spanish Valentine party was featured under the direction of the committee of Esther Flasberg and Lena Scandroli. The number attending made Spanish valentines. Some of the programs during the year consisted of a talk on Porto Rico by Miss Isabel Fisher, a member of the faculty; a review of Richard Halliburton's New World's to Conquer by a committee of Shirley Hawkinson, Junior Buck, Marian Lyford, and Thelma Turkington; and a Spanish play by the committee of Eure Nelson, Helen Larson, Mildred Burd, and Margaret Engstrom. Vernice Richards and Lois Tobinson head the committee for the club's annual picnic to be held in June.

8-5-3 Club

Membership for the 8-5-3 or history club is composed of students in the history, economics and civics classes. The name of the club is derived from the initial letters of each one of these subjects, arranged in the numerical position in the alphabet; 8 for H, 5 for E, 3 for C.

The purpose of this club is to promote an interest in social science subjects by creating a better understanding of these subjects; to create a feeling of friendship and co-operation among the members, and to encourage the ability to assume responsibility.

To encourage the interest in subjects of the social science department interesting travel talks about the conditions and customs of other lands are given, either by club members or by non-members. One very interesting talk was the one given by Miss Isabelle Fisher on the customs and living conditions of the Spanish people. Miss Helen Wray gave a very interesting speech about her experiences as a nurse in France during the World War.

Early in March the club sponsored an evening party; it was the first in its history.

One interesting and important achievement worked out by the club was some investigation of local history. Several facts came to light concerning Rockford's part in the Civil and the World Wars. Interesting Indian legends such as the story of Starved Rock and the activities of Chief Blackhawk in this vicinity were discovered.

During the year the club contributed to the historical novel fund of the social science department.

Commercia Club

The Commercia club is one of Rockford high school's most recent organizations, chartered only last fall by a group of girls interested in commercial work. The qualification for membership is that the pupil must be taking stenography and typewriting.

The objectives of the Commercia club are, to further an interest in typewriting and shorthand by showing its application to everyday life; to protect and advance its members after graduation; and to provide social contact and fellowship for its members.

The programs are arranged in such a way as to attain this purpose. To promote an interest in commercial work, educational films presenting the principles of typewriting and shorthand, are shown. Humorous plays that illustrate the habits and customs of stenographers are also presented. Debates as to the importance of the various factors that go to make up a good stenographer, contests; and an exhibit to show the work of the club impress the members and others with the value of the work of the commercial department.

To carry out its social aims, the club staged afternoon parties in the Gym, open to members only, where the students became better acquainted; a picnic was another social event.

In early March, the club gave one of the season's most successful afternoon parties which was open to all school members. As new an organization as Commercia club is to be congratulated on staging such a successful and enjoyable event, featuring novel dances, games and stunts in addition to the usual program.

Radio Club

During the last ten years there has been such a rapid progress in the science of radio that it has aroused interest to such an extent that a branch of it has been installed in Rockford senior high school through the organization of the Radio club and its efforts. The purpose of the Radio club is to give experience to its members in the radio art and also to maintain a short wave transmitting and receiving station.

Meetings are held every Monday evening after school. About twenty boys, interested in the subject are members of the club. The programs of their meetings are usually composed of a discussion of technical terms and implements which pertain to radio and its science.

The main activity of the organization is the operation of radio stations. Four of the members operate their own individual stations while the whole club has a main high school radio station. Milton Carlson operates a station which has the call number, W9FFI; Maurice Fieldman a station with the number W9BNO; Everett Hallquist, W9AGV; and Paul Johnson, W9BNO. The main station at high school is known by the call number W9BIM. The latter is a fifty watt outfit operating on a frequency of about seven thousand, one hundred kilocycles, using a one thousand volt motor generator for its power supply. The boys have received word from all parts of the United States congratulating them on their work.

It is a rather surprising discovery to find a radio station right within one's own school.

Grace Dodge Club

The Grace Dodge club was organized by the Young Woman's Christian Association, to help its members face life squarely and to find and give the best. Its membership is composed of any high school girl who is interested in its activities and who wishes to be of help to others.

This year the club has been very active. At Christmas and also at Thanksgiving, members gave baskets to several poor families. They joined the other Girl Reserve clubs in giving a reception for the high school teachers. At various times the girls have sponsored bakery sales at different places to raise money. Their work has even been extended to the institutions of the city, some of its members giving an entertainment at the Sanatorium.

The girls have given several ceremonials in many churches of the city. They gave a play entitled "The Kleptomaniac" at the Y. W. C. A. and at the Lincoln Park school. At their club meetings they often have outside speakers; one of the interesting speakers was Miss Mellie John from the Rockford senior high school faculty. Each year the members have a day set aside as student day. From time to time they have social gatherings and parties. There are also outings and conferences to be attended and enjoyed.

The club is an all-round club giving both help and a good time.

A. B. L. Literary Society

Girls who have been recommended by their English teachers as having the ability to appreciate good literature and having retained a high average in all their English courses are admitted to the A. B. L. society after having been voted upon by a committee of club members. Because only active members can remain in the club, it is necessary for each girl to earn fifteen points for service.

The purposes of the club are to further appreciation of literary works and public speaking, and to promote a feeling of friendship among the girls of the school. Early in the winter, the club sponsored a program by the poet, Carl Sandberg. The girls are very active in all school affairs: they took part in the Annual assembly, winning the second prize of $5; on March 31, they presented a unique and beatuiful assembly of their own; and they sold tickets for the senior play, a task which they annually undertake. Another traditional event in the history of the club is the annual Christmas party which was staged this year on December 6

The outstanding accomplishment of the club this year was the awarding of a loving cup to the school. This cup, similar to the American Legion cup, is to be used for the names of senior girls, one of whom is to be chosen each year by a group of faculty members, as the girl in the senior class who has been the most outstanding leader during her high school years both in service and scholarship.

Philomathean Literary Society

In 1912 the Philomathean Literary society was formed to promote skill in public speaking and debate and to study parliamentary law. Any boy, upon the recommendation of his English teacher and the passing of a test in parliamentary law, is eligible for membership. All meetings of the club are carried on in strict procedure of parliamentary law, the rules of United States congress being used.

Several extemporaneous humorous debates were held throughout the year. The first semester the club debated the question, Resolved: that high school clubs are beneficial. The decision was declared a draw by Mr. L. P. Dudley, adviser of the club. Philos sponsor the school debating teams which won the Northern Illinois High School Conference championship for the third consecutive year.

The society furthered its purpose in sponsoring the International Boy Orators on October 20, for the assemblies. A new constitution was prepared and approved by club members the first semester.

Members of the club helped A. B. L. girls decorate for their evening party, December 6. They participated in the Annual assembly in giving a pantomime for which Richard Paget was interlocutor.

Rab Authors and Philos merged to give their evening party on March 14 with Laurie's orchestra playing at the dance. The gym was decorated in green and yellow to give an effect of spring; streamers hung from the balcony with a criss-cross cutting. Paul Collins was in charge of arrangements for the party with Thomas Lindley, second semester president, acting as general chairman of the evening.

Hi-Y Club

In 1912 under the sponsorship of Mr. Leo Lyons, former supervisor of physical education in Rockford schools, the Hi-Y club was formed to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community a higher standard of Christian living. Hi-Y clubs are formed in high schools in whose towns no Y. M. C. A. organizations are maintained. All boys are eligible for membership if they have been in high school six quarters. New members are taken in three times a year.

Hi-Y members hold their meetings in the evening. There is usually an outside speaker who talks in connection with the dinner meetings. Everett Ralston, accordion player, was very popular at the gatherings this year, playing for community singing. Impromptu discussions were conducted by the boys on some phase of Christ's life which was impressive to them as well as very instructive.

Mr. Charles Beyer, physical education director; Dr. Jordan Cavan, of the Rockford College faculty; Leland Fetzer, and Mr. Leo Lyons spoke at first semester meetings. Mr. Guy Smith, a faculty member, spoke at a February meeting.

Francis Hickey, Herbert Calvert, and Byron Marlowe attended the Older Boys' Conference at Danville, Illinois, on November 26, 27, and 28. The boys attended discussions which were reported to the club.

Hi-Y members sponsored in April a week of a four-C's campaign, clean living, clean speech, clean sports, and clean scholarship. At the beginning of the week they sponsored an assembly.

Junior Engineering Society

On January 7, 1929, the first meeting of the Junior Engineering society was held. This organization was founded to promote a stronger interest in engineering among high school students in the co-operative course by bringing information from the engineering field before them and creating a closer feeling of fellowship among the students. Charles Stotler was elected president, and the first membership cards were issued on April 1, 1929.

In August the meeting of the club was held at the Belvidere beach in the form of a picnic. Officers were elected for the year in October, Almon Tucker, a junior, being chosen as president. The triangular pins of the society arrived for the November meeting.

One or two representatives from each factory interested in the co-operative industrial course attended the banquet on January 24, 1930, at Haegg's restaurant.

To acquaint the members with the engineering field in a more detailed manner, the program at the monthly meetings consists mainly of speakers. Each speaker tells of his own field of work. On July 1, Mr. George Bradley of the Ingersoll Milling Machine Company showed moving pictures of the rapid development in building machines. Mr. Ralph Cotta, designing engineer of the Ingersoll Company, spoke on designing; Mr. O. T. Muehlmeyer talked on heat treating.

The Junior Engineering society is the only school organization which meets during the summer months. This is due to the fact that members of the club are enrolled in the co-operative school all the year.

Amazon Club

Members of the Amazons formed their organization that good sportsmanship might be created among the high school girls and that an interest might be stimulated in athletics and health rules.

Baseball, basketball, hiking, swimming, hockey, and tennis are the sports in which the girls are most interested. Teams were formed for the various activities within the club, and contests were held at the meetings. A tennis tournament was held in the spring between the club teams.

Slumber parties were enjoyed in both spring and fall at the Loves Park cottage of Miss Bertha Bardo, club adviser. A very successful open afternoon party was given by the Amazons, October 11, which was well attended.

Meetings of the second semester were devoted to programs besides contests between the club teams. Winifred Wade, president of the club, appointed chairmen for programs in second semester meetings: Leona Bell and Bernice Rosmun, February 25 and March 4; Bernadatte Callahan and Janice Ryan, March 11 and 18; Alice McLee and Betty Williamson, March 25 and April 1; Nellie Zuklie and Mildred Wells, April 8 and 15; Barbara Furze and Winifred Wade, April 22 and 29; Grace Swenson and Virginia Lee, May 6 and 12; Virginia West and Dorothy Norberg, May 20 and 27; Antoinette Lutz and Violet Heiliger, June 3 and 10.

Walter Hampden Club

Walter Hampden club was founded to give members an opportunity for expression and originality, to create a desire for the correct use of the English language, to stimulate interest in drama as a form of literature and the present day theater, and to promote an interest in speech and dramatics throughout the whole school by supporting ventures of their department and raising funds for equipment.

Programs for the regular meetings consist of plays, readings, and music. The play, "Two Crooks and a Lady," was given on October 17. Mary McCarthy, Martha Blomgren, and Sigrid Calson, members of the club, presented "The Maker of Dreams" on October 31. Miss Edna Youngquist, adviser, gave a demonstration in the art of making up at the meeting on December 12.

Clara LeFevre, a German student in the school, told the members of the Passion Play at Oberammergau at the first meeting in 1930.

The club sponsored one of the first successful evening parties of the year on November 15, at which Laurie's orchestra played. For several years the dramatic group has made and sold pom-poms for the important football game of the season at Rockford, making them for the Freeport game this year.

At Christmas, the members did charity work in supplying not only baskets, but also clothing and toys for seven poor families. Mary McCarthy headed this committee. Funds gained through the party bought books for the Dramatic Art department this year and last year the club bought and hung a new curtain for the stage in the class room.

Gratia Norton Club

The Gratia Norton club is directed under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and was organized in honor of Miss Gratia Norton, a Rockford woman who was at the head of the local Young Women's Christian Association for many years. Its membership is composed of high school girls interested in this work. The purpose is to face life squarely and to find and give the best.

Although recently organized, this club has had its share of activities. A party was held in honor of their patroness, Miss Gratia Norton. At another meeting they heard Miss Norton speak at her home, on the subject: "Early History of Y. W. C. A." During the winter a sleigh ride was given by a board member at which the members of this club were guests.

Members of the organization have taken part in several entertainments. They also helped the Camp Rotary organization by making their song books. At Christmas time; when the bazaar was held, they contributed many kinds of handicraft, and at the annual Y. W. C. A. dinner, the club presented a play.

During the holiday season the girls helped to bring cheer by giving baskets of food, clothes, and toys to several poor families in the city. They also made a trip to the county jail where they sang Christmas songs for the prisoners. At another time, the club presented a program for the members of the Eastern Star old people's home.

Because the members of the Gratia Norton club are the oldest workers in Girl Reserves, they act as advisers for the girls in the other branches.

Blue Triangle Club

The Blue Triangle club is one of the Young Women's Christian association organizations. Its purpose is to help the girls to live truer and nobler lives, to face life squarely, and to find and give the best. All meetings of the club are held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

One of the club's chief activities this year was to care for the child the members had adopted previously. They sewed clothes, made toys for her, and gave her a party on her birthday. During the Christmas and Thanksgiving holidays, the members gave out baskets of food to the poor of the city. The club is very much interested in social service, having done much interesting work for the city on tag days, and in community movements, such as making scrap books for the use of the Visiting Nurses.

During the year the girls have taken part in several church services, presenting their ceremonials and illustrating the purpose of the club.

This group is known as a very friendly one. To promote the friendship of its members, various social affairs are held. The members sponsored a mother-daughter banquet, gave several sleighrides and went on a weekend trip to camp Rotary. The girls also had bowling parties, and gave a party to an out-of-town Girl Reserve club. Several ceremonials, recognition services, and parties were conducted by the club together with the two other Girl Reserve clubs of the school.

"R" Club

All the athletes, as well as cheer leaders and managers wearing an "R," who have received their "R" letters are eligible for membership in the "R" club, which was founded four years ago with one interest to which the club devotes its time, athletics. Meetings were held on alternate Tuesday evenings at 7:00 P. M. in the high school building. However the club did not hold meetings until the second semester this year, due to the time taken by football and basketball.

One of the aims of the club besides continuing the fellowship formed through athletic connections is to promote clean athletics. The members of the organization sponsor many rallies throughout the year; one of the most important of which was for the Freeport football game. Mr. John Petritz, member of the board of education, was the speaker. Members of the club act as ushers and take charge of the score boards at the basketball games.

William Carlson was general chairman of the "R" Sweater formal on April 5, one of the best parties of the year. All "R" men wore "R" sweaters and all guests were dressed in semi formals. The gym was decorated in the school colors, red and black. Pennants of various schools were hung from the ceiling and decorated the walls. The punch stand was decorated in the form of a booth. As a novelty number Robert Whitfield sang several numbers with the orchestra. All captains of 1929-1930 teams of Big Six schools were invited to the affair. They, too, wore sweaters, displaying their athletic letters.

Glee Club

The Girls' and Boys' Glee clubs are two distinct organizations because meetings are held separately except when joint work is necessary for special programs.

Both clubs participated in the Annual assembly in which the girls were awraded first prize and the boys received honorable mention. They have given programs over station KFLV, Rockford, besides programs at the Junior high schools and at the dedication exercises of the R. K. Welsh school.

The Glee clubs, accompanied by the orchestra, sang the Hallelujah Chorus from "Messiah" in the Christmas assembly program and at the night school. They brought Yule cheer to the shut-ins of the city by the programs at the Masonic Home, Children's Home, and the Municipal Sanitorium. The Girls' double quartet sang for the Intermediate Woman's club early in March.

Band

In 1907, the R. H. S. band was organized under the supervision of Mr. John T. Haight, the present director. Although the membership has increased to nearly four score active members, it was composed then of nineteen boys.

Because the instruments the members were using had become inadequate to the needs of the band, the Board of Education in the fall of 1929 appropriated $5,500 to be used to buy new instruments for the organization. The discarded instruments were the same ones used by the band when it was first organized.

S. band took a trip to Centralia as guests of the Lions' Club. Here they participated in parades and played several concerts before the entire convention.

Toward the end of this year, the boys, accompanied by their fathers, went on the annual three days trip to Lake Ripley, Wisconsin.

Director—MR. JUNE BORNOR

The seventy piece full symphony orchestra, under the supervision of Mr. June E. Bornor, was founded in 1918. Twelve original members wth a rather doubtful instrumentation had a vision and a will to work. Sixty-eight members are now on the concert group.

This organization's chief purpose is to foster appreciation of instrumental music among the members of Rockford Senior high school.

When Mr. G. E. Swanson, manager of the American Beauty Music House, heard that the orchestra was planning to buy a radio, he presented them with one. The members of the orchestra have listened every Friday morning to the programs of Walter Damrosch who is considered the best orchestra leader in the world.

Student Council

The Student Council, which is the one communication between the students at large and the faculty, was organized in 1917; now it is one of the most active groups in the school.

Since the home room system was inaugurated in September 1929 the method of elections as well as the number of members has been changed. Members are elected on the basis of one from each home room making a total of 68 members. Miss Hazel Putnam, dean of girls, and Mr. Paul S. Conklin, assistant principal, act as faculty advisers.

The object of the Student Council is to further the general welfare of the school by urging high standards of citizenship, improving appearance of various buildings, aiding both student body and faculty divisions in solving mutual school problems.

Owl Circulation Campaign Yields 666 Subscribers

New Circulation Plan Is Inaugurated

By CARL AAGAARD

Netting a total of 666 paid coupon-book subscriptions, the final circulation drive for the Rockford high school Owl was terminated Thursday, February 13. Executives of the business staff, which is headed by Eleanor Peterson, business manager, stated that the returns of the drive, which was conducted through the homeroom system, were very satisfactory, and that the number of subscribers is now higher than at any time during the last three years.

Several new features in the Owl's business management have been introduced during the past term. The drive for subscriptions this year was handled on the sale of coupon books, containing tickets good for six and 13 issues of the paper. In addition, announcements made today by Josephine Armstrong, circulation manager, indicate that the Friday Owls will be distributed through the homerooms hereafter.

Advertising High

Advertising in the Owl during the year 1929-30 has been greater than during several past seasons, according to reports made Tuesday by Alice Peterson, advertising manager of the sheet. This year's ads are an increase of about 20% over the column inches of space sold for the past four years.

Advertising for the Owl is solicited from the merchants of Rockford by a student ad staff of about six members. The copy is prepared by them, and the type set in the high school print shop, where the Owl is printed.

Business Important

Business management of the Owl is one of the most important features of the paper. As with the editorial board and staff of reporters, the ten-odd business staff positions are filled by student members. The Owl's business staff handles all financial matters of the paper, solicits advertising, takes care of circulation and subscriptions, mails bills and collects from advertisers, and in general handles the business of the organization.

High School Owl Is Small-Scale City Newspaper

Staff Handles News, Ads, And Business

By CARL AAGAARD

From the open door of room 225, tucked away at the foot of the student worn stairs near room 222, comes the sound of clattering typewriters. The time may be near 5:30 on a Tuesday evening. Dusk has fallen, the shadows in the vacant halls are deep.

Room 225 may be better known as the Rockford High School Owl's editorial and business offices, for it is there, each evening, week by week, that the staff races with time to get the Friday Owl ready to go to press.

True Newspaper

Covering all fields of news in the school,—school news, sports, clubs, social events, and general activities, the Rockford high school Owl is a true newspaper. Every Friday morning Owl subscribers receive their paper through the various homerooms.

The Owl is written by a student staff of nearly 45 students, and is published from start to finish by student workers. The editorial staff headed by Carl Aagaard, as editor with Jane McFadyen and Charles Tulloch, associate editors, writes all the copy. The business affairs are handled by Eleanor Peterson, business manager; Alice Peterson, advertising; and Josephine Armstrong, circulation. The five column paper is printed in the school print shop.

Inter-School Plan

This year, the Owl, working with the Quill and Scroll society, organized the Inter-School Plan between Rockford and Freeport. Francis Hickey, Richard Paget, and Carl Aagaard spoke at Freeport high school while three students returned the visit to Rockford to appear in the annual Quill-Scroll assembly here. The purpose of the plan is to promote goodwill and friendly relations between the schools. The formation of the plan was the project of the paper for the year.

Sales Students Secure Ads For 1930 Yearbook

Business Staff Innovates Patron Section

Under the direction of Richard Paget, advertising manager of the Annual, the members of the advertising staff have put across a new plan of patrons and patronesses instead of the old form of advertising this year. Every business firm in the city was canvassed by one of the workers after special letters had been sent before to the business men. The volunteer workers had been able to obtain 165 ads when the work was taken over as a class project by Mr. Henry Rickert's salesmanship class. They set the mark at 350 ads which they were nearly able to reach. Each member of the class who secured eight or more ads was given a discount on his Annual. On January 17 a sleigh-ride party was given this class by the Annual staff for all they had done.

On January 13, an assembly was sponsored by the Annual staff in which many of the school clubs competed for the $10 prize which was offered. The Girls' Glee club was the winner of first place in this contest and the A. B. L. literary society attainer of second place, receiving $5. At this assembly a campaign was made among the students for subscriptions. This year, a first payment of 25 cents was required at the time the subscription blanks were filled out and handed to the staff representatives. The total number of subscribers is considerably over one thousand, although Francis Hickey, circulation manager, wanted to make at least 1,600. This has been almost accomplished by the outside subscription campaign sponsored by Mr. Richert's second semester sales class.

Under the auspices of the business staff, the play "A Message from Mars" was presented in the audtiorium by the Better Play Service company on March 14. This play was the second of two consecutive ones, the one given last year having been "New Brooms."

1930 H. S. Annual Distributed; Many Unusual Features

Green And Black Color Scheme Is Used

Resplendent in its 1930 class colors, green and black, and displaying several unusual features, among which is the unusual plan for the senior leaders, the R. H. S. Annual was distributed to approximately 1,500 student subscribers. The product of a year's effort of an enterprising student staff, the yearbook displays many and unique characteristics.

Headed by Martha Jane Castle, the editorial staff of nearly seventy members has produced a book of achievement based on the Law of the Camp Fire. Preparation for the publication of the Annual was started with the opening of school in September. At that time staff appointments were announced and special section work begun. Every organization in the school is included in the volume, and a complete record of the year's events is chronicled in pictures.

The 1929 Annual was rated highly throughout the press associations of the country, having received rating as a Pace Maker from the National Scholastic Press Association and distinguished rating from the Illinois High School Press Association.

Martha Jane Castle, Mary Elizabeth Stocking, associate editor of the Annual, and Richard Paget, advertising manager, are the Annual staff members of the Quill and Scroll journalistic honorary society.

The Annual's calendar of events during the past term was packed with interesting highlights. On November 20 to 22, Martha Jane Castle and Richard Paget represented the yearbook in the Illinois State Press Association convention at Urbana. Mary Elizabeth Stocking and Pierry de Saix attended the Big Seven Press confab at Elgin where they participated in the annual discussions.

On March 13, the play "A Message from Mars" was presented in the auditorium by the Community Theater Players of Chicago under the auspices of the Annual staff. This year's play was the second consecutive annual production, the one last year being "New Brooms."

Debate

Rockford high school's debate team, coached by Mr. Lloyd P. Dudley, clinched another conference championship this year, thus giving the school the honor of having captured the Big Six trophy for the third consecutive season. The Rab speakers defeated Elgin, West Aurora, Freeport, and East Aurora to win the championship.

Carl Aagaard, Jane Knight, and Francis Hickey, the affirmative team, and William Sparks, Richard Paget, and Lena Scandroli, negative, debated the Elgin high school team, on February 20. The affirmative lost its decision, but Rockford won the debate 20-22 on a decision by points scored.

On the twenty-seventh of February, in a triangular debate for the championship, Rockford's affirmative consisting of Carl Aagaard, William Evans, and Francis Hickey, traveled to West Aurora, where they again lost the decision. The negative team, debating in Rockford, with Freeport high school, brought the point total up, however, and Rockford won the debate, 19-23.

With the official conference schedule completed, Rockford and East Aurora met in a post season event on March 10, in which the negative, consisting of Rose Kasinkus, Carlton Page, and Lena Scandroli—and the affirmative, Carl Aagaard, Jane Knight, and Francis Hickey, both won their debates by decisive scores.

RICHARD PAGET

The progress of the cadet corps this year has been largely due to the industrious efforts of Richard Paget, cadet major, with those of Colonel Herman Glade. Paget has been a valuable member of the corps for two and a half years. Obtaining the position of corporal in his third semester, the present major advanced rapidly to the coveted appointment. He showed his interest in military tactics by attending camp at Fort Sheridan last summer. Paget has also proved himself a valuable member of this year's rifle team, ranking among its high marksmen.

Lyford Gsell has worked hard as first lieutenant and range officer, keeping a record of all range matches and caring for the rifle range.

Carl Aagaard as battalion adjutant during the first semester, had charge of the R. O. T. C. headquarters. Aagaard was appointed Company A captain second semester.

Carlton Page, having been appointed as sergeant major in the R. O. T. C., has had charge of all records for the corps during the second semester.

COLONEL HERMAN GLADE

The instruction of the Rockford high school R. O. T. C. battalion this year, has been under the supervision of Colonel Herman Glade, who has been in active military service since 1900. At this time, he graduated from the United States Military Academy as a second lieutenant. Since his graduation, Colonel Glade has served in various parts of the United States, and South America. He was detailed as P. M. S. & T. at Rockford high school last year.

Sergeant Foutch—The progress of the corps has been greatly furthered by the efficient training of the rifle team and the instructing of the companies by Sergeant Foutch.

Wilbur Jacobson has successfully filled the position of battalion executive for the R. O. T. C. all year. This office is successive to the rank of major.

Herbert Calvert as sergeant major and as battalion adjutant, has been active in keeping up the records of the corps, and in taking charge of the headquarters company.

Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps

It was with great eagerness that Rockford high school took up its first military training course. The local battalion was first organized in 1917 in response to a nation-wide movement to establish military training in high schools. Military training within the school was heartily supported by parents of the boys who wished to enroll. Application blanks were distributed and when they were returned, it was found that one hundred and twenty had signed up for the course.

However, other anxious participants were enrolled a short time later and the total strength was increased to one hundred and ninety boys. Those who joined were divided into three companies under the supervision of Sergeant George Cockriel of the regular army; under his supervision the progress of the corps was exceedingly rapid.

A few drills were held and uniforms were then ordered. Shortly after their arrival, the boys became more earnest in the work and the new uniforms served to inspire them with a more soldierly feeling. Officers were selected by both the members of the companies and Sergeant Cockriel, but arms were not received until April 12, 1917.

The cadets made their first public appearance in March, 1917, with a parade on State Street. At this time the introduction of short hikes and other healthful activities in which the cadets participated each Saturday morning served to make the work more enjoyable. Thus the progress of the R. O. T. C. battalion was begun with much enthusiasm.

A greater inspiration was acquired by the creation of the "Honor School Inspection," an outstanding school event, which takes place each spring.

Last year, the cadets were inspected within the building on the gynasium floor. Upon being excused from school, they filed in ranks and the four companies then marched to Fairgrounds park where the inspection was continued. Maneuvers of military character were executed and the participants were graded according to their precision, promptness, and accuracy, a certain grading being given for each event. A total score was then taken and compared with the ratings of the sixth corps area.

Although Rockford high school was unable to win the coveted honor rating for the ninth consecutive time, the cadets are hoping for success this year and are working to accomplish their goal.

This year, the local battalion is under the leadership of Colonel Herman Glade. At the opening of the school term, those who wished to obtain the positions of commissioned and non-commissioned officers, were given trials and were awarded according to their abilities to fill the positions.

The battalion has been led very successfully by Richard Paget, cadet major, and Wilbur Jacobson, battalion executive. Carl Aagaard has performed his duties promptly and as adjutant has kept the Headquarters Company business in good order. Companies A, B, C, and D were led by Captains Thomas Lindley, John Galley, Stath Karabas, and Harry Speake, respectively. Each of the above men has done a great share of the work toward the promotion of the battalion.

The choice marksmen of the battalion were chosen to form the backbone of the 1930 rifle team. Each member of the corps was required to fire in the individual matches, held on the indoor rifle range. The highest men in the individual matches of each company, were chosen to represent the companies in the indoor company matches. The team which was to represent the battalion in the larger matches with other schools, was chosen from those who shot the highest scores in each company.

The military ball held by the battalion this year was an outstanding success. The attendance was far greater than that at any of the recent similar occasions.

Eight men from the battalion were chosen for the firing squad; their first public appearance of the year was held in front of the courthouse on Armistice Day. At this time, the squad from the R. O. T. C. and a squad from the Illinois National Guard, combined into one detail of sixteen men which fired three volleys in tribute to America's World War heroes. The squad has been reorganized each year and has fired on all suitable occasions.

SKINNER HOOVER LUNDBERG

Company A

(First Semester)

Captain.....Thomas Lindley
First Lieutenant.....Leland Crandall
First Lieutenant.....Grant Skinner

Company A is noted as the hard fighting unit which through sheer endeavor, gives the other divisions a hard battle for first honors in any sort of competition. This year progress has been marked by the introduction of a system of intensive instruction by the cadet officers. These officers spend the large part of each company drill inculcating into the minds of the cadets, the subjects which are covered in the curriculum of the military department. Exact knowledge is the key to good results, and every attempt is being made to accomplish this end.

Company A

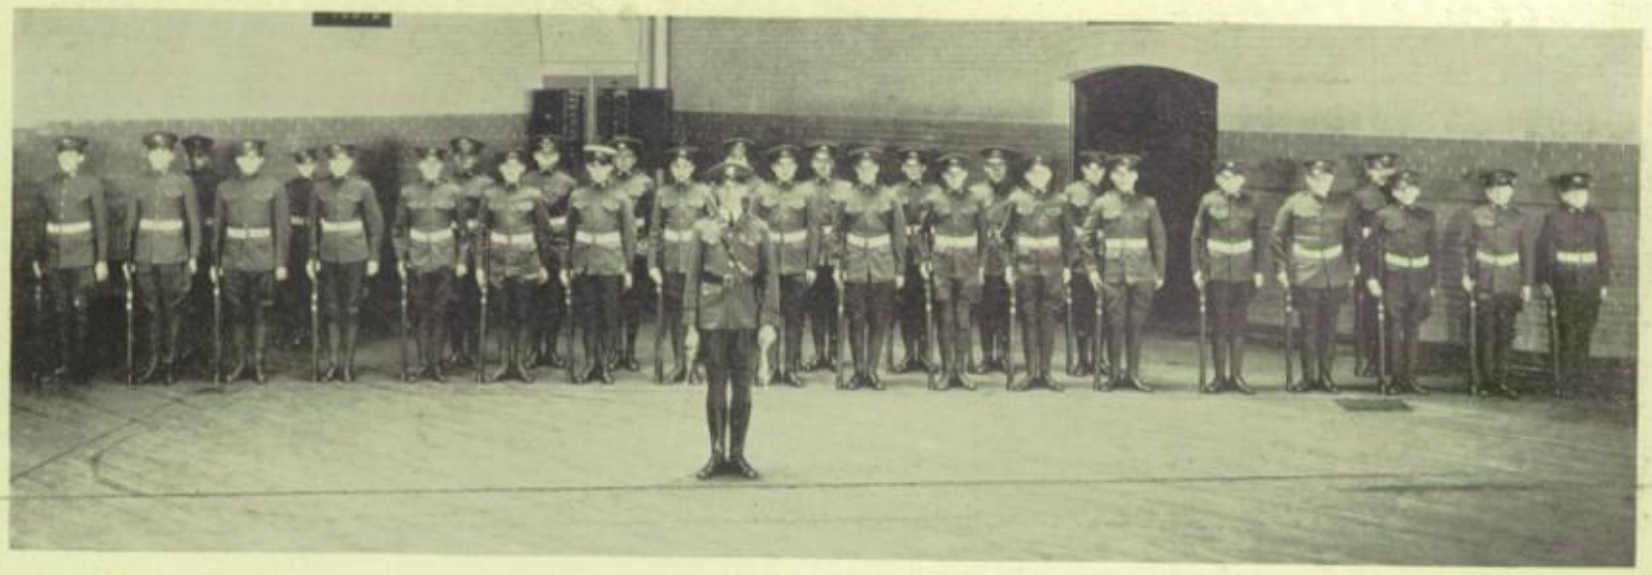
(Second Semester)

Captain.....Carl Aagaard
First Lieutenant.....Charles St. John
First Lieutenant.....Harry Beyer

Advancement in the intricate branches of military science comes with intensive study and practical application. This is the goal aimed at throughout the course. The cadets themselves are thus largely responsible for the progress made by the unit.

The progress of the second platoon is often slower than that of the first; as most of the entering cadets are of small stature, it is filled with the newer cadets. The brand of entering students, however, has been exceedingly gratifying and has failed to prove an appreciable handicap. Company A is to be congratulated upon its work this year.

Second Platoon



File Closers—Gilchrist.
Rear Rank—Belskus, Bocttcher, Swanson, Timm, Stidham, Johnson, Bruno, Mitchell, Eder, Swenson.
Front Rank—Shute, Erwin, Crumb, Naber, Kamback, Dahlberg, Holmquist, Hoffman, Kistler, Johnson, Kleckner, Daniels, Erickson, Pettit, Porter, Bloomquist, Bert, Eyster

GALLEY ST. JOHN NELSON

Company B

(First Semester)

Captain.....John Galley
First Lieutenant.....Charles St. John
First Lieutenant.....Arlin Thro

"Variety is the spice of life" is an ancient maxim which may be applied to the Reserve Officers Unit this year. Colonel Herman Glade has provided the corps with many new and interesting activities. Each day, the drill is opened with physical exercises. During the second semester physical drill with rifles has been studied with marked interest. Sergeant Earl Foutch, assistant to Colonel Glade, has carried on active competition on the rifle range between companies of the corps as well as the interscholastic matches. This year the Company B rifle team carried off the honors in the company rifle matches.

First Platoon

File Closers—Damon, De Love, Eliason.
Rear Rank—C. Anderson, H. Anderson, Bloomster, Clay, Craig, Dixon, Jensen, Kenerson, McNames, Morehouse, Morey, Salaway, Simons, Swanson.

GSELL THRO CRANDALL

Company B

(Second Semester)

Captain.....Leland Crandall
First Lieutenant.....Arlin Thro
First Lieutenant.....Grant Skinner

In this company, as in the others, drill and studies are carried on under the supervision of the cadet officers. Especial attention has been placed on rifle marksmanship, scouting and patrolling, physical training, and manual of arms. The advancement has been very gratifying.

Company B has been progressing rapidly during the past year. It has always been a close contestant for high honors. In the 1929 June Competitive Drill, Company B carried off second honors with a high rating. The inspections of the year 1929-30 have always found this unit either in the lead or not far behind.

Second Platoon

Lieutenant—Skinner.

Officers 1929-30

LASKY BEYNON CAMPBELL

Company C

(First Semester)

Captain.....Stath Karabas
First Lieutenant.....William Clark
First Lieutenant.....Joe Lasky

Company C has been one of the outstanding units of the Corps for the past few years. The standard of Company C has been exceedingly high in all of its competition with the other companies during the past.

Last year, the company was quite successful: it was judged the best company participating in the annual competition; the best squad in the entire battalion was selected from Company C; during the Competitive Drill of 1928, Company C once more developed the best private, the best platoon, and the best company. The company is again making an excellent showing under Captain Thomas Lindley.

First Platoon

File Closers—Beynon, DeVlieg, Burdick.
Rear Rank—Belter, Caldwell, Clikman, Estep, Floyd, Kritsinger, Lilja, Lundin, Newberg.
Front Rank—Kall, Smith, Hercer, Yuccas, Remson, Winters, Ahlstrom, Andrews, Bartels, Lundberg, Williams, DeSaix, Piazza, Grimmitt, French, Marks, Bacilek, Johnson.
Lieutenant—DeGroff.

Officers 1929-30

NELSON DEGROFF LINDLEY

Company C

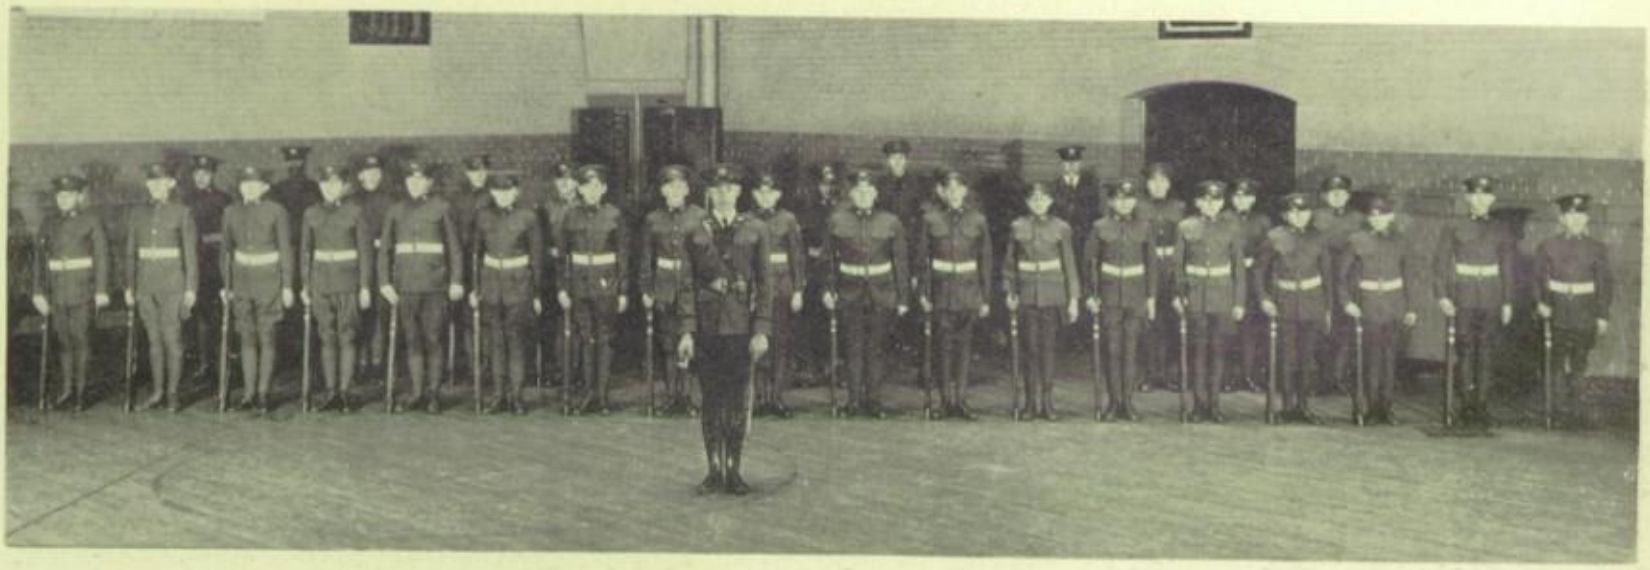
(Second Semester)

Captain.....Thomas Lindley
First Lieutenant.....Russell DeGroff
First Lieutenant.....Donald Campbell

The responsibility of captain was placed on Thomas Lindley for the second semester, a new plan of instruction being instituted this year. Many subjects such as first aid, musketry, and study of automatic rifles, were taken up in the course. Daily classes were held and discussions were engaged in as in other school classes. Upon the completion of each course of instruction, an examination was given. The examination grades in this company, as well as in the other companies, have been exceedingly high.

In the inspections, Company C has held a place of ranking importance. A number of good marksmen has also been found in the company. A winning company is expected under Lindley's leadership.

Second Platoon



File Closers—Harvey, Nelson.
Rear Rank—Whitenback, Milinauski, McGuire, Melrose, Morris, Niles, Nordvall, Olmstead, Oncken, Caston.
Front Rank—Allan, Block, Capron, Dickerson, Johnson, Fazio, French, Hercer, Brown, Fitzgerald, Yankus, Doyle, Covert, Webb, Aosian, Kruger, Groves.
Lieutenant—Campbell.

Officers 1929-30

SPEAKE COLLINS BEYER

Company D

(First Semester)

Captain.....Harry Speake
First Lieutenant.....Harry Beyer
First Lieutenant.....Paul Collins

During the first semester of this year, Company D was captained by an able officer, Harry Speake; the company progressed rapidly under him during the semester. There was much study put upon military tactics including map reading and battle maneuvers.

An open competition was held to pick the best men of each company for company rifle teams which fired matches to pick the best team in the corps. A number of good marksmen was found among the cadets of Company D. They also rated in the various inspections held throughout the semester. Industry and interest have been shown on the part of both officers and cadets.

First Platoon

File Closers—Lundberg, Olson, Hogans.
Rear Rank—Allen, Frittnof, Cavender, Donofrio, Soper, Stolp, Cobb, Edwards, Trank, Granquist.
Lieutenant—Collins.

Officers 1929-30

CLARK SOPER BURDICK

Company D

(Second Semester)

Captain ..... William Clark
First Lieutenant ..... Paul Collins
First Lieutenant ..... Lyford Gsell

William Clark held the appointment of captain of Company D for the second semester. Much effort has been made to develop first rate platoons since platoon drill is one of the important features of the Annual Competitive Drill held at Fairgrounds Park in early June.

The work of the cadets in this company has been uniformly efficient. Company D produced the best private in the battalion at the competition last year.

Some of the participants, from this unit, in the inter-company rifle matches rated high as candidates for the battalion rifle team. Company D has a good record of coöperation between its members for the past year.

Second Platoon

File Closers—Johnson.
Rear Rank—McDowell, McLeish, McInnis, Lester, Linscott, Phillips, Anderson, Rungren, Allen, Anderson, E., Johnson, Gazziano.
Front Rank—Townsend, Fulchon, Gravitt, Bacilek, Gunn, Hartsough, Gsell, Sheets, Franceschi, Bear, Holmes, Townsend, F., Alexander Figi.
Lieutenant—Gsell.

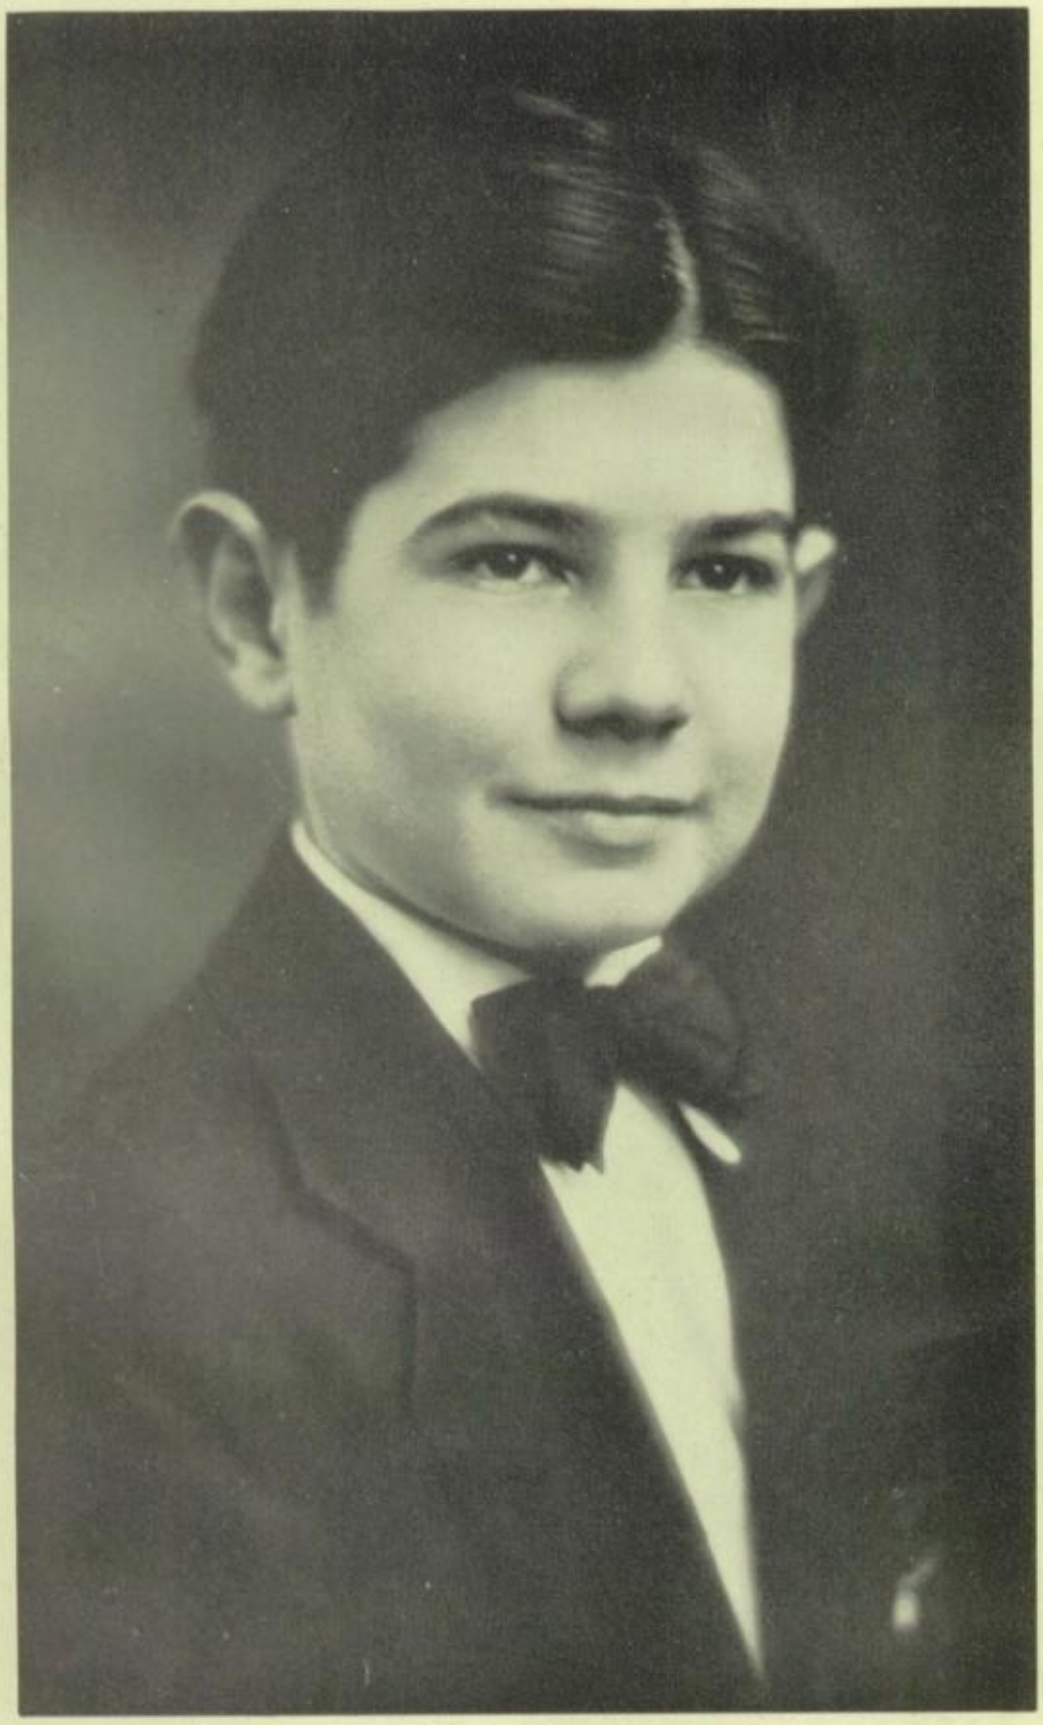
Pursue Knowledge

God gives us life : then watches what we do
To each one build his mind and body strong .
He made this earth replete with facts unknown.
And placed the human here to delve and solve .
Those problems after years of patient toil.
And pondering wise men said that man should learn
In institutions built for wisdom's sake.
And knowledge . which means untold wealth. pursue .

Julia Joslin



DARVING SKOGSTROM,

a constant honor roll student, was elected by the class of '30 as the best boy student in his class. Besides being a constant scholastic leader, Darving has also been able to find time to work diligently on the sport section of the Owl staff and in the Chemistry club.

FLORENCE KALEN,
during her years at Rockford high school, has been a consistent honor roll leader, thus gaining the choice of the senior class for one of the best students of 1930. Besides being a leader in scholarship Florence has been a member of the French and Chemistry clubs during her last year.

Seek Knowledge

Knowledge concerning many things is necessary in the everyday routine of earning a living. When a person goes out to look for a job that will buy his food, clothing, and shelter, he discovers immediately that he must know how to do some of the things for which the world will pay. He must know how to run a typewriter, how to read a blue print, how to make the proper computations that will build a stable bridge or a steel sky scraper, how to write a clear statement that cannot be misunderstood, how to speak forcibly and convincingly.

And all of this means daily routine and drill in the class room, work which is often irksome and rarely spectacular. Yet it is the basic principle of the school. It gives to the engineer his mathematics, to the lawyer his Latin, to the editor his accuracy in sentence structure and punctuation. It gives to the individual a tool with which he may earn his living and maintain his place in society.

And so, though I grant the full significance of all the intangible but very important contributions of fun, friends, and faith, I nevertheless repeat that knowledge for its practical, self-satisfying, and cultural qualities is the sine qua non for all educational institutions.

Home Room 222

MR. JAMES LAUDE

Many active Juniors comprise home room 222 under Mr. James Laude. Everett Hendrickson was elected president of this home room; Charles Spatz was elected vice-president, Mary Wilder, secretary, and Margaret Larson, treasurer.

This room had the honor of being the first to respond to the one hundred per cent mark for the Junior class dues. The room was well represented in the class play by Ralph Kall, Junior class treasurer, and Willard Damon. Everett Hendrickson has been a member of the Glee club's operetta cast for the past two years.

Electing John Weld and John Tuckett captains, the room decided to divide into two teams for banking to teach thriftiness. The losing team is to furnish some sort of entertainment for the winners at the end of the year. Mr. Laude kept urging the members of 222 to save their pennies and thus he had much to do with the high banking standards.

MISS HELEN BARLASS

During one of the home room periods at the first of the semester members of home room 309 elected officers to take care of the home room business. The following were chosen: president, Jane Collins; secretary and treasurer, Lester Carlson. Several weeks later Jack Dunn was elected to represent the room in the Student Council.

309 has two representatives in athletics. Leo Dool was elected captain of the heavyweight football team for the season of 1929. Leo received his second "R" this year together with his captain's star. Willard Ellison played on the lightweight basketball team last season, and Albert Markunas was out for the swimming team.

Jane Collins, president, played the leading part in "Seventeen." In the R. O. T. C. the room is represented by Jack Dunn and Frederick DeLong, both sergeants.

Although no one in the room has made the honor roll, Albert Markunas, who has the highest scholarship in 309, has missed only by a slight margin. Such has been the case in banking, also, for as yet the room has never quite made the goal of 100%, but the banking has averaged in the nineties almost the whole semester. Jack Dunn and Lyle Baie are the cashiers.

MISS MARGARET ARFORD

At the beginning of the first semester, officers were elected for home room 224, during one of the regular home room periods. Violet Heiliger was elected president; Harry Dickinson, secretary; and Donald Carlson, treasurer, as well as cashier of banking. The home room periods are used for study and are supervised by the teacher.

Home room 224 was represented by three members in the Junior Class play, including Bob Dickinson, who took the leading part, Herbert Calvert and Jerry Allaben. The latter was chosen president of the Junior class, and Rose Kasinkus, another member of 224, class secretary. Herbert Calvert was elected to represent the room on the Student Council and was elected secretary of that organization. The honor roll pupils for the first semester were Eleanor Bjorklund, Emily Carlson, and Ellin Herlin.

The room has been represented on the football field by Carl Johnson, a letterman; in the Glee club by the same person; on the swimming team by Frederick Byergo; on the Annual staff by Dorothy Carlson and Anne Elmers; and in the band and orchestra by Robert Dickinson and Donald Carlson, respectively. Rose Kasinkus was considered the all-round Junior of the room, being active in various organizations besides holding class and home room offices.

MISS AGNES BROWN

Because the home room period is used for studying, except when the Student Council asks to have its problems discussed, 347 has elected no officers. Harry Hill, however, was chosen bank cashier. The room has made a good record in banking, having 100% often and closely approaching it the rest of the time.

The Student Council representative from this room has been Virginia Eddington. Pupils who have made the honor roll are as follows: Willard Armstrong, Elizabeth Dobson, Harry Hill, Mavis Green, and Lelia Peterson. Also, all of these except Mavis Green were on the first semester honor roll. Three of the members, Irene Lynch, Alice Blomquist and Phyllis Newcomer, were chosen to sell tickets for the Junior class play, "Seventeen." Virginia Eddington was a member of the cast.

In other activities were Katherine Adams, a member of the orchestra, and Harry Hill, who was on the second debate team. Helen Ray and Harry Hill were members of the Owl staff. Betty Thro has been an active member of Rab Authors,' holding the office of social chairman, and Virginia Eddington also held a club office, that of secretary of the 8-5-3 club.

MISS FLOY DENTLER

Students from the art department compose the larger part of home room 405. However, despite their artistic moods, they are very active in banking, athletics, and scholarship. The members elected the following officers at the beginning of the first semester: Perry Anderson, president; Harry Blomberg, vice-president; Lucille Peacock, secretary; and Barton Cummings, treasurer. Barton also played the role of bank cashier with Harry Blomberg acting as his assistant during the first semester. However, Harry left school, and Perry Anderson and Isabelle Dahlin were appointed to take charge of the banking for the last semester. The room succeeded very well in banking, having made one hundred per cent consistently.

Hymen Burstein and Katherine Fritz have been able to make the honor roll several times. Katherine also collected Junior dues in 405.

Barton Cummings, captain-elect of the 1930 football team, and Stanley Goral, a letter-man on the Big Six Championship Lightweight team, are room 405 contributors to the athletics of the school.

Hervor Bengtson and Burdette Osborne were both in the operetta, both being members of the Glee clubs. Burdette was also a member of the cast of the Junior class play "Seventeen."

Adrian Janes, George Jenkins, and Warren Rowley were elected by home room 212 as their president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer respectively. Donald Moon and Helen Thornton acted as cashiers.

Many of the members of this room boosted the Owl staff in their campaign for subscriptions by buying books. About the same number purchased season football tickets. The students that were on the honor roll during the semester were Adrian Janes, on every quarter and also on the semester honor roll, and Alice Subotch, on one quarter.

Articles written by Alice Subotch, Adrian Janes and Elvira Rulis in the creative writing class were published in the Junior literary supplement of the Owl.

The following organizations were represented by the following people from this room: Philomatheon Literary society, William Franzen; Glee club, William Hason and Elvera Swanson; Rab Authors, Adrian Janes; 8-5-3 and Fasces clubs, Donald Moon; Amazons, Josephine O'Donnell; Biology, Josephine O'Donnell and Helen Thornton; Paint and Palette and French clubs and Owl staff, Elvera Rulis; Commercia, Alice Subotch, Mildred Pierce, and William Franzen; Walter Hampden, William Thayer; Girl Reserves and Seco clubs, Elvera Swanson. MISS MARION PIERCE

James Wise was elected as the Student Council representative from room 144 in September. Vera Smith was the banker and Laura Chessel was her assistant. The usually high banking average was due to the commendable spirit of co-operation of the entire group.

The home room was well represented in sports by Archie Weyberg, who has had one year of heavyweight football experience, and Ronald Prentice, who has been lightweight fullback for two seasons.

Two students were active in the Junior class work: Myrtle Beck, collector for the Junior class dues, and Vera Smith, an usher at the Junior play. The latter also was the student who had the highest scholastic average of the unit.

The group as a whole was very well represented in extra-curricular activities. Helen Sands belonged to the Amazons and 8-5-3 clubs; Mary Elizabeth Van Denberg was a member of the Amazons, the Annual staff, and the Biology club; Scott Wexter played in the band; Vera Smith was a representative in the 8-5-3 club; Jeannette Lind was a member in the Fasces and Rab Authors' clubs; Ronald Prentice was a member of the Glee club and the "R" club as was Archie Weyberg; Paul and Fay Johnson belonged to the Radio club; and Lily Anderson to the Seco club.

MISS HELEN LOVELESS

Home Room 242 is a large home room, being composed of thirty-three students. Class officers were elected at the beginning of the first semester and the results were as follows: Rose Behr, president; Everett Ralston, vice-president, and Student Council member; and Ida Farrell, secretary and treasurer. During the football season this year the greatest number of season tickets was sold in this room. Ralph Kall, the Junior treasurer received a one hundred per cent response from this group for Junior dues.

Room 242 has also made a banking record. Banking has been one hundred per cent since November 16, 1929. Ruth Keegan is the bank cashier, and Everett Ralston is her assistant.

In the honor roll section the names of Julia Joslyn and Everett Ralston appear as having constantly had grades of A's and B's.

A number of these students are prominent in outside activities. Jane Anderson is on the Owl staff, and Alice McLee is working on the Annual staff. Ione Hohenstein took a leading part in the Junior play as Willie Baxter's mother. Rose Behr was also active on the properties committee of the play.

The following officers were elected at the beginning of the first semester for room 345; Gilbert Townsend, president; Juanita Koplin, vice-president; and Helen Eickman, secretary-treasurer. Jean Lace was chosen Student Council representative. The officers take care of whatever business there is, but since this is a new experiment for the senior high, very few matters presented themselves for attention this year.

The home room period has been spent in studying; therefore no special activities have been carried on. However, the class aided in the drive against discourteous actions in corridors, study halls, and assemblies, and they gave suggestions for improvements.

The room has not yet been able to reach 100% in banking, but it is still striving. The head cashier has been Gilbert Townsend, and his assistants were Juanita Koplin, Ogle Hollenbeck, Arvid Lund, Frank Murphy, and Margaret Anderson.

Three members of the room have been on the honor roll: Stella Hokanson, Antoinette Lutz, and Jean Lace. Roland Carlson represented the room in the band, and Vera Lindahl was a member of the orchestra. Also, Muriel Laycock has been a member of the Girls' Glee club.

The other officers were: Clyde Salaway, vice-president; Drace Livingston, secretary and treasurer; and Martino Mistretta, assistant cashier. As a representative to the Student Council from the unit, Raymond Ingwalson was elected.

Myrtle Peterson received honorable mention as an all-round Junior. She collected the Junior class dues, putting the room among the first ranks in the campaign, and was an usher at the class play. She also had the highest scholastic record. June Mueller and Margaret Sandberg attained places on the honor roll several times.

Vincent Leatherby and Clyde Salaway are track lettermen; Enard Lundgren is a football letterman; and Arthur "Bud" Johnson wears a manager's letter for aiding the heavyweight football team.

The majority of the members were active in club work and Junior class activities. Donald Robertson and Ruth Roland competed in selling Junior play tickets. The various clubs which were represented by members are: Annual staff, Owl staff, A. B. L., Band, Orchestra, and Glee clubs.

Election of class officers in home room 204 was held on October 15, 1929, and the results were as follows: James Newport, president; Curtis Bailey, vice-president; Henry Oppegard, secretary; and Mansfield Atchison, treasurer.

Eight of the students in 204 subscribed for the Owl, but only thirty-nine per cent of the pupils paid their class dues last semester.

Charles Hughes was chosen by the home room teacher as having the best scholarship in the room; Lois Hannblom was elected for giving the best service to the room, and James Newport, the president of the home room, was chosen to represent 204 in the Annual. Dick Harvey, a member of many clubs, including Philos, Hi-Y, and Boys' Glee club, was chosen as a representative to the Student Council, of which he is treasurer.

Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, whose tragic death shocked the entire school, was the teacher in charge of this room for the greater part of the first semester. Miss Ruth Ralston acted as a substitute for several weeks until Miss Julia Shafer took charge of the room this semester.

Although home room 204 is not represented by its members on any athletic team, it has a great many student attendants at athletic games.

MISS EDITH PORTER

This home room has chosen a name for itself; it is "Porter's Peppy Pets." This group has shown spirit by reaching the one hundred per cent mark in banking every week. The room is divided into two sides with a captain and a name for each. The "Bulldogs" are captained by Eugene Robinson and the "Gold Diggers" by Harriet Baker. Because this room is always on top in banking the teams are now having a contest to see which team will bank the most money during the semester. Dorothy Porter is the cashier.

Officers for the first semester were: William Lewis, president; Peter Rashkewich, vice-president; Bertil Rosander, secretary; and Eugene Robinson, treasurer. Julie MacGregor represented the room in the Student Council.

The Peoples' Trust fund in the room aided many pupils in financial affairs, for lunches, supplies, tickets, and for other various needs. Myrtle Cromwell took charge of every loan until it was paid back with interest.

Lenora Inman and Mildred Lundquist were the honor roll students, Lenora having the highest average in the room for the semester.

The students in this room, aided by Miss Porter have made a special effort to co-operate in every undertaking suggested by school officials.

MR. LLOYD DUDLEY

Under the direction of Mr. Lloyd P. Dudley, home room 142 held its election of officers at the first meeting of the first semester, and the results were the following: president, Clarence Polaski; vice-president, Eleanor Stenberg; and secretary-treasurer, Helen Christenson. At another meeting Jane Knight was elected as a representative to the Student Council. Plans were made for a home room party, which was held after the football season, thereby making it possible for the athletes, Bob Scott, Clarence Polaski, and Arthur Mead, who were in the room, to attend. In the band, room 142 has been represented by Corlet Wilson, and by Bob McIlwain, the band drummer. In other activities were Jane Knight, a member of the Annual staff and first debate team; and Carlton Page, who gained a berth on the second team, and who is also on the Annual staff. Everett Peterson, Donovan Pratt, and Eleanor Stenberg were on the Owl staff. In another activity, the ochestra, were Inez Anderson and Helen Christenson. Several members of the room who have gained places on the honor roll are as follows: Eleanor Stenberg, who has the highest scholarship, DeForest Rowley, and Everett Peterson.

MISS MARY CARLSON

Kenneth King, a member of home room 208 was elected by the students in that room to act as their president for the first semester. They also elected Esther Flasberg as secretary-treasurer and Robert Zahn as the banking cashier. William Hoover, a lieutenant in Company A, was chosen as the Student Council representative.

Charles Jensen and Esther Flasberg were the students from this home room who were able to make the honor roll. Although there were only these two on the honor roll, this group was represented in both football and basketball by Robert Truesdale, who played on the Big Six Championship lightweight football team, and received his third "R" this last season.

Robert Zahn and Marvin Hogard were the students from room 208 who played in the band; Becky Fox was a member of the Girls' Glee club and Henry Kreuter represented the room in the Boys' Glee club.

A good record in banking was made by this unit, the percentage having ranged from ninety to one hundred per cent all the first semester. When time was not needed for routine purposes, the home room members spent the period in studying.

MISS MARY JANE BEARD

To this group goes the honor of making a hundred per cent baking record every week last semester. The girls competed in a contest with the boys to see which could outdo the other in banking the greater amount. At the end of the semester, the group having banked the highest per cent was to be entertained at a party given by the losers, but both groups tied and there was no party. The cashier for the girls is Krissie Fraley, and Paul Goodman has charge of the boys. The greatest amount of money banked any week was twenty-eight dollars and eighty cents.

Anyone chewing gum was fined five cents. This money was kept in a painted milk bottle which was kept in front of the room. The money helped pay for a party that they had at the end of the semester.

Marion Hedrick is president of this home room, and Paul Goodman the vice-president.

This home room consists of fifteen girls and the same number of boys.

When Miss Mary Jane Beard, the home room teacher, was ill and unable to be present, each member contributed money to buy her a gift as a token of appreciation of her interest in the room.

MR. GUY SMITH

Home room 329 has been very fortunate in having a group of students who are eager and willing to help Rockford high school. They are loyal to every school enterprise, and have helped considerably to raise the school percentage in banking, having had one hundred per cent in banking every time except the first two weeks of the semester.

This room may also boast of being the first to have one hundred per cent in paying Junior class dues. Carolyn Starr was in charge of collecting the dues.

Maxine Smith, Jeanette Ogilby and Carolyn Starr were elected to sell tickets for the Junior class play, "Seventeen."

Officers were chosen in one of the home room periods. Ralph Summerfield was elected president, Kathleen Warner and Douglas Smith vice-presidents.

Room 329 is represented on the football field by Robert Whitfield and on the R. O. T. C. battalion rifle team by Orville Shute. Winifred Wade represents the room on the Owl staff and Douglas Smith on the Annual staff. Jeanette Ogilby was elected by Room 329 to the Student Council.

The home room period is used for business meetings whenever necessary, for study periods, and for social purposes.

The Library always has been a mine of gold to the R. H. S. students when certain topics lessons were assigned to us that could not be obtained elsewhere. But wasn't it a tragedy to find that all the books needed for reference were out? And weren't some lucky?

Webster was, is, and always will be a great friend of all the high school students. Remember how many trips were made to the corner of the room, and how many conventions congregated about it.

Maybe William would not be able to recognize these persons as characters in his famous play, "As You Like It," but nevertheless, the Walter Hampden club players put it over well and in true Shakespearean fashion.

News writing class which put out a specal section of the Rockford Newspaper, Inc., Morning Star and Register Gazette on Memorial Day. They don't look especially busy here as they are posing for the photographer, but they were so when in their newspaper office, Room 225.

"Schooldays, school days, good old golden rule days,"—but here it seems that it is more than just plain "readin', and 'ritin' and 'rithmetic." I wonder if Carl could write a song as simple in form about Chemistry, Trig and Latin.

This is a sample of the way the debaters work. Although the school does not make so much noise about the debaters, that is as much as it does about the athletes, the students show that they appreciate that the work the arguers have done has come as a result of intense effort.

Be Trustworthy

No man can have a hope for his success.
Or ever dream of knowing lasting friends.
If through his life he does not prove to be
A loyal man and one who merits trust.
And you who dream of such a life in school.
As fits you for a task to later come.
Inspire in each companion in your work
Approval of your firm trustworthiness.

Julia Joslin

RICHARD PAGET,
Cadet Major during his last year, was chosen by the seniors of 1930 as the most trustworthy boy in the class. Besides the above mentioned office, Richard has been president of the Philos, secretary of the junior class, advertising manager of the Annual, a member of the debate team and of the band.

MARY ELIZABETH STOCKING,

associate editor of the 1930 Annual, was chosen by her class as the most trustworthy girl. Mary Elizabeth has held several offices in the school among which were president of the Le Cercle Francais and secretary of the A. B. L. She is also a member of the National Honor society.

Be Trustworthy

Although the brilliant trappings and pomp of knighthood are no more, the observance of the oath of fealty has a greater significance today than it ever had in the romantic past, and there are loyal knights serving greater and more noble lords than feudalism ever knew. The youth of today needs to buckle on no sword nor cover his body with glittering armor to go forth to the highest service. Within him is the armor of integrity, veracity, and discretion that make him worthy of the trust of any who call upon him. The home in which he is sheltered, the school which gives him tools for his life's work, the friends who share his burdens, test youth for the qualities that merit trust. The laying of the hands in those of the one who seeks aid is still the symbol of the exchange of trust and confidence. The shoulders of the youth who is trustworthy are squared for the burden of responsibility as were those of knights of old for the stroke of the sword. All about him lie the opportunities to prove his trustworthiness; all his deeds test his reliability in service; all his words reveal the truth of his tongue. No richer crown can be placed upon the head of the young knight of the present than the words of his friends, "He is trustworthy."

Mellie John.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society was organized during the year 1925 in Rockford high school. Election to this society is one of the greatest honors that can be bestowed upon a student in the Senior high school. Lists of names of eligible students are submitted and voted upon first by all the teachers and then by a council of senior English and history teachers with the heads of instruction departments in regard to scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Only fifteen per cent from the upper third of the senior class and five per cent from the upper third of the second semester juniors scholastically may be added each year to the society.

The pledge is a promise to uphold the high purposes of the society striving in every way, by word and deed, to make its ideals the ideals of their school. The emblem is a keystone with a flaming torch indicating the strong foundation of education in regard to truth and life. The society attempts no activities but students are urged to continue the activities which caused their election to the society.

Honor assemblies are held in June at which time the chief speakers have been presidents of colleges in this vicinity, namely: James C. Brown of Northern Illinois State Teachers'; Irving Maurer, of Beloit; and William A. Maddox, of Rockford College.

Last June a new organization was founded for the musicians of the high school by some of the alumni under the direction of Miss Amy Hollem.

The founders of the organization were: George Allan, president; Howard Wolfe, vice-president; Jean Miller, secretary; Nancy Starr; Margaret Sowle, Doris Johnson, and Marcella Hehir, and Miss Hollem who obtained the charter for them.

The purpose is to elevate the general standard of musical appreciation in the school, to recognize earnest musical endeavor among the students, and to use the talents of the high school musicians to better advantage for the school and community.

Only juniors and seniors may belong to this society. They must be students of voice or of any instrument and must continue their musical study during their membership.

Miss Amy Hollem and Miss Sarena Dunton were the teachers qualified to act as judges of this society, and students appearing as applicants were required to come before them prior to their being made members of this society.

This organization meets four times a semester. The society gave a program in assembly which contained the following numbers: Piano solo, Ducks in a Pond, Margaret Sowle; vocal solo, The Kindes' Man, Louise Heiliger; violin solo, Jean Miller; vocal solo, Little Boy Blue, Mildred Milburn; piano solo, Lieberstraum, Howard Wolfe; piano solo, The Clown, Florence Lovejoy.

National Athletic Scholarship Society

MARLOWE
(Charter Member)

In 1929 a chapter of National Athletic Scholarship society for secondary schools was organized in Rockford Senior high school to promote scholarship among the athletes, as well as to raise the ideas of sportsmanship and to produce outstanding leaders who, when they are farther on in school, will continue athletics and succeed in regular classes as well. Good training is an achievement which cannot always be attained, but in this age of school work boys can develop it to the highest extent.

This society does not hold regular meetings or have fees, but it rewards boys who have held up the banner of scholarship while they engaged in sports.

"Eligibility to membership in this society shall be limited to those boys earning an athletic letter in one of the four major sports, or letters in two minor sports whose average in their school work for three successive semesters is equal to or higher than the general average of the school, and who have exemplified the highest type of citizenship and sportsmanship."

The above quotation is taken from the National Constitution of the organization.

This year six boys have been recognized by the society and given certificates. They are: Brownie Adamitis, Jack Beynon, Paul Campisi, Marshall Cusic, Donald Olson and Alex Yankus.

Quill and Scroll Society

Quill and Scroll, the National honorary society for high school journalists, was organized in Iowa City, in 1926, by leading publishers throughout the United States; the Rockford chapter was formed last February. By very rapid growth there are now four hundred chapters found in the United States and eight thousand young high school journalists now wear the pin of this society.

The purpose of the Quill and Scroll society is to encourage and reward individual achievement in journalism and creative work. Many tasks are undertaken as the organization of national contests, and state press associations, criticism of manuscripts and publications, establishment of better relations between school and community, and acquainting the public with the value of high school journalism.

Rockford's chapter was awarded honorable mention for its achievements along publication lines last spring at which time the chapter had been organized for only three months.

The first attempt of inter-school fellowship was sponsored by the Quill and Scroll Society when an assembly was given for Rockford High school by speakers from Freeport high school, Rockford in turn giving a program at Freeport. Richard Paget, Carl Aagaard and Francis Hickey, all publication workers, were the school's representatives.

Owl staff members who were awarded pins at the Owl-Annual banquet on February 22 were Jane McFadyen, Charles Tullock, Alice Peterson, Eleanor Peterson, Bernice Emanuelson, Vernice Richards, Elmer Anderson, Herbert Calvert, Lona Howe, and Francis Stites; from the Annual staff were Mary Elizabeth Stocking and Richard Paget. Martha Castle and Carl Aagaard had been awarded pins last year.

Hold On To Health

We own a gift presented us by God,
If we among the fortunate are placed,
Which must be cared for as a tender charge
If service it will render in return;
For healthrates high among possessionsloved,
It is not unessentialin the game
A body strong and sturdy to possess--
One's happiness demands we keep it so.

BYRON MARLOWE, because of his athletic record while in high school was chosen as the best athlete. Byron has played basketball and football, being a letterman in both of the sports. Hold on to Health

At Rockford High school, as in all schools, a systematic course of physical training and athletics has been established which has as its ultimate gain the building up of strong healthy bodies, clean minds, thereby stimulating clean living and building character and good citizenship.

"A Sport for Everybody" should be the slogan of all athletic departments. Our large universities have built up extensive programs of intramural sports among women as well as men. High schools, whenever facilities will permit, are likewise building up large programs of intramural sports.

Baseball, basketball, football, track, swimming, hockey, skating, soccer, volleyball, tennis, golf for boys, and most of these for girls, are found in nearly every large school athletic program.

"What profiteth it a man to gain the whole world and lose his soul?" is a saying found in the Bible. Just as appropriately it might be said, "What does it profit a man to gain success and lose health?" "To build up health" should be the slogan of every athletic department.

To hold onto health should be your endeavor. If you do this, then you will enjoy life always.

Charles A. Beyer.

Football Season—1929

The Rabs opened the 1929 season by playing the heavy Lane Tech team of Chicago. Without any outstanding playing on either side the game ended in a scoreless tie.

The heavies' fighting fullback, Howard Arfstrom, displayed drive and determination all season, especially in the Belvidere game with his consistent gains through the line which resulted in a victory for Rockford.

In a game minus the usual thrills, the Roosevelt team of Chicago nosed out the Rabs in the last few minutes of play. Since the game was played on Thanksgiving day with the cold making it a difficult matter to handle the ball, fumbling was frequent. Although on the short end of the score, the Rabs outplayed their opponents.

Rockford traveled to Elgin to play the first conference game of the season. The Rabs were turned back by the Champion Maroons who were led by Herman Walser, one of the greatest line plungers that the Big Six conference has ever produced.

Beloit high school team invaded Rockford, and through the brilliant running of Millheim, were able to score enough points to give them a victory over the Rabs. Rockford's star was the fullback, Clarence Polaski, who later was shifted to a guard position. His defensive and offensive playing were outstanding, his line plunging enabling the Rabs to score. He played well in his guard position, showing up brilliantly on defense also.

Football Season—1929

The football season reached a climax when Rockford clashed with Freeport. Keyed to a pitch beyond expectation, both teams fought desperately for supremacy with the Rabs getting the better of the affair. Blomquist, Rockford's quarterback, scored the first touchdown of the game and a few minutes later sent the ball sailing between the uprights and over the cross bar by a beautiful dropkick which proved to be the deciding event of the game. The score, however, does not indicate the Rabs' superiority.

The Rock Island majors, led by the speedy Ralph Bracktil, defeated the Rabs in a fast game at the new Rock Island stadium. It was an even battle, with both teams fighting desperately throughout the game. Rock Island scored both of her touchdowns on passes.

Football Season—1929

West Aurora was in the lead over the Rabs as the first half of the game ended. However, Coach Lundahl's inspiring talk gave the boys that good old typical Rockford fight, and they turned what seemed certain defeat into a glorious tie which was due to some beautiful passes with Barton Cummings on the receiving end.

"Bart," though handicapped by injuries, proved valuable throughout the season, and his election to the captaincy of the 1930 squad was justly deserved.

The strong East Aurora team visited Rockford with a display of fight and drive and returned to Aurora with another victory to her credit.

Despite the fact that the Rabs fought a grim and determined battle at Joliet, they were defeated in one of the toughest battles of the season.

In an early season game the Rablets showed mid-season form to defeat the heavy Stockton team by the score of 40 to 0.

To draw the curtain on their already successful season, the boys whipped Freeport to the tune of 46 to 0. An unusual play occurred in this game! Freeport was punting when Leo Campisi, all-conference guard and honorary captain of the all-conference team, broke through the line and as the kick dropped to meet his up-coming foot, Leo grabbed the oval and ran thirty yards for a touchdown.

Grimmett, Carlson and Thurwell, seniors, and Robert Scott, who won all-conference honors, have earned letters.

Rockford lights opened the Big Six conference season by defeating the Elgin team 13 to 0. This game was featured by two brilliant runs by Bob Truesdell, each netting forty yards. The Rablets scored all their points in the second half after being held to a scoreless tie at the half time.

Although completely outplaying Joliet, the Rablets lost their only game of the season by the score of 6 to 0. Four times the champions threatened to score and four times they were repelled.

Chster Youngman and Paul Campisi, seniors, won all-conference recognition for their work as did Stanley Goral and Ronald Prentice.

Fighting Captain Jack Garnhart deserves much credit for the splendid sportsmanship and fighting spirit which Rockford lightweights showed. His spirit of brotherhood seemed to be contagious, and affected the whole squad. Although in a comparatively obscure position of blocking halfback, when the Rablets defeated East Aurora 20 to 7, his blocking and leadership were a feature.

Rock Island's beautiful new stadium was the setting of another victory for the lightweights when they defeated the Rock Island seconds by a score of 19 to 0.

Byron Adamitis and Harold Morrow, seniors, and Carl Rohlen and John Oberg, underclassmen, played good football all season.

The Rockford lightweights opened the 1929 season by defeating the heavy Lane Tech team by the score of 32 to 0. The Rab Minors were never hard pressed and many of the substitutes were given a chance to perform.

A few weeks later our boys traveled to West Aurora to play their hardest game of the season. This game was featured by Jack Beynon's good strategy which was a big factor in the 12 to 0 victory for the Rablets. The defense also performed brilliantly in this game, a fact which helped greatly in keeping the West High athletes from scoring.

Donald Olson, Marshal Cusic, John Tuckett, and John Lyons, all seniors, deserved winning their letters this season.

Heavyweight Basketball Season—1929-1930

The basketball season started when Coach Laude put out a call for aspirants on November 18. He was rewarded with only thirty boys. The first game of the season was with Carl Schurz of Chicago which resulted in a victory for Rockford. Harlem came down the following Friday and defeated the Rabs.

Traveling to East Aurora the next week, the team was again turned back with the score against them after five extra periods of hard playing. The next night the Rabs defeated Beloit on their own floor. Not playing for a week helped the team turn back the Alumni by a fairly big score.

Elgin came to Rockford and won by two baskets after a hard battle. West Aurora then entertained the Rabs but denied them a win after an overtime period. Belvidere in a return game at Rockford lost again to the Rabs.

Traveling to Freeport, the team lost in one of the poorest played games of the season.

The Beloit cagers were the next victims of the Rabs in a hot contest, where the Rabs played one of their best games. East Aurora came to Rockford and gave the Rabs their first Conference win of the season. They delighted their followers when they won from Joliet by one point after a tense overtime period.

The next week the team lost its second game to Elgin on the Watch City floor. West Aurora played the next Conference game in Rockford which was won with the largest margin of the season.

Freeport, in its game here, lost by two points after a game battle fought without its captain who was taken out with a sprained ankle.

In the district tournament the team beat Pecatonica, but it was beaten, the same night, by Freeport for the second time out of three games. This game closed a season of ups and downs with a tie for third place in the Big Six conference, West Aurora and Joliet sharing the tie.

Lightweight Basketball Season—1929-1930

The Rablets started their season by practicing with the heavyweights, because of Coach Lundahl's duties with the heavyweight football team in finishing the season. The team then transferred over to the tutelage of Mr. Lundahl on November twenty-eighth.

The lights started their playing season by defeating Lincoln Junior high, Harlem Consolidated, East Aurora, and the Alumni. These games were played in great fashion, and the team's start encouraged fans to expect it to go very far in the conference. Then meeting a hard opponent, the ponies lost to Joliet their first out of five starts.

Coach Lundahl injected new spirit into his ponies and they conquered their next two rivals, Belvidere and Elgin, by very close scores. The Rablets then again stopped their winning streak and fell down to a low level, losing to West High of Aurora by a close margin of two points.

Following this defeat the Rablets went on a scoring spree and defeated the next four teams they met; Belvidere, Freeport, Byron, and East Aurora in very hot battles.

Again the team lost a game to Joliet this time on the Blue and Gold's floor. The Rablets won over Elgin in another conference battle the following Friday, but lost their second game to West Aurora by two points after an overtime period of playing. Entertaining the Pretzelettes next, the minors defeated them by a fair sized score ending the season—a successful season, winning twelve games and losing four.

The coaches of the basketball teams during the past season, make their first attempt to establish a "B" squad. The teams worked very hard and enjoyed very successful seasons considering the first year. The lightweight "B" squad played Byron fives twice, Harlem, and Durand, each one, winning all encounters with the exception of Durand—a season average of three wins and one defeat.

The heavyweight "B" squad defeated Byron four times and dropped only one encounter of the season, to Durand.

Track Lettermen

Captain Carl Kindstrand was the most consistent point winner on the Rab track team. Besides leading to the conference title, he broke the record for the 220 yard dash in that meet.

Leo Campisi, captain-elect for 1930, is one of the best milers ever to wear the Red and Black. He was anchor man of the winning four-mile relay team at the Marquette Relay Carnival.

Robert Dennis was a reliable hurdler, his specialty being the high hurdles. He proved a real asset by scoring points when they were most needed and his determination and fight inspired the entire squad.

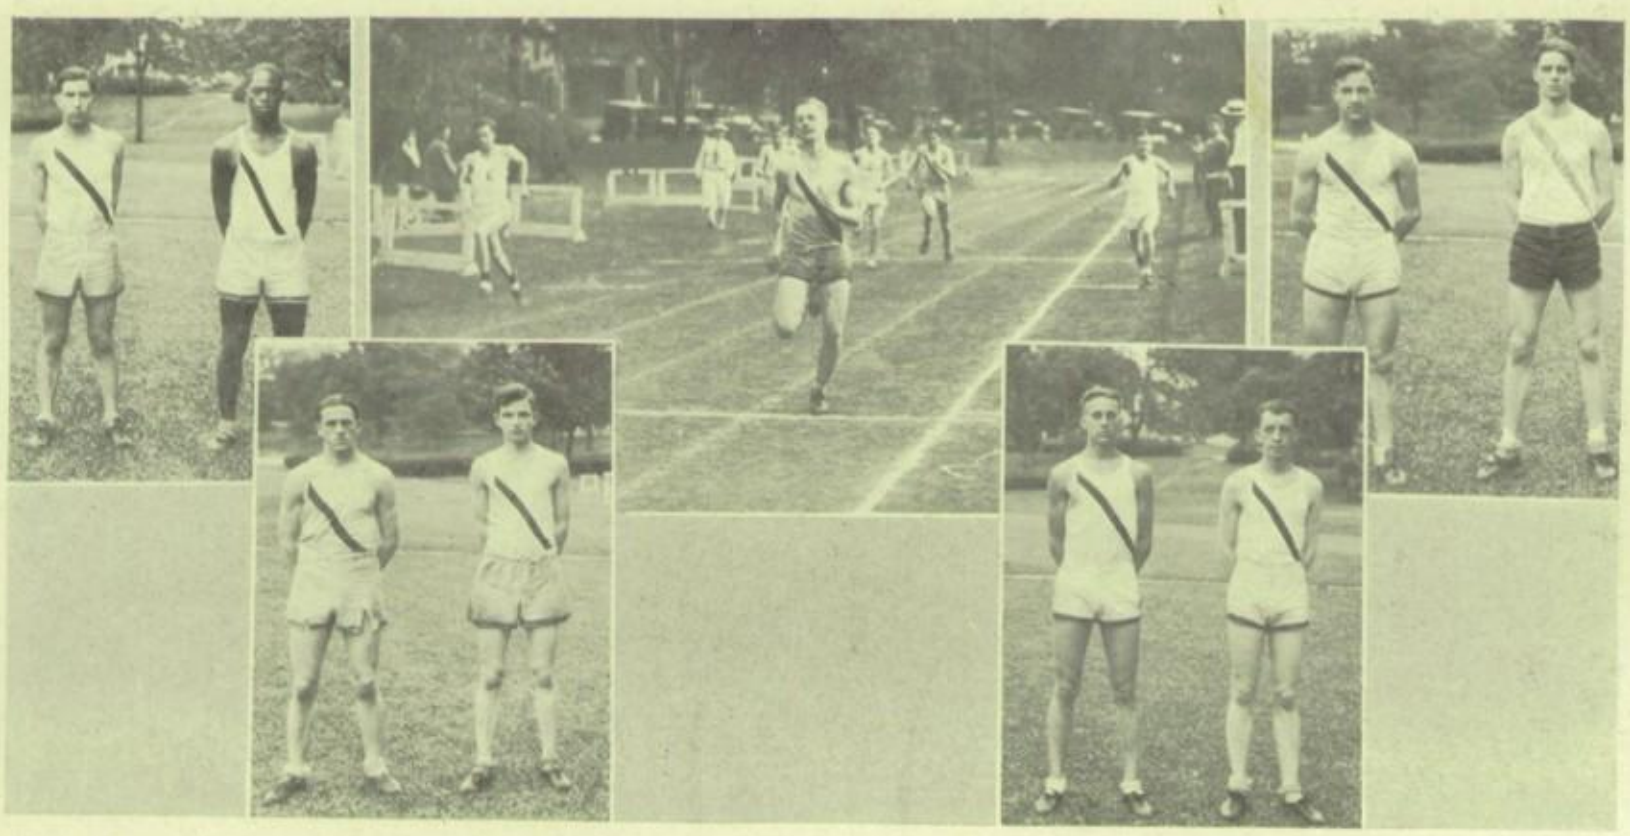
Another hurdler of note, Eugene Brown, specialized in the low hurdles and broad jump. Although he had stiff competition at all times, he usually came through to enter in the scoring column.

The only freshman in Rockford's track history to win the annual Pentathlon meet, Swen Berglund, is both a broad jumper and sprinter. He seems destined to be one of the greatest track athletes ever produced in Rockford.

Clyde Salaway is a junior miler who seems to be the only logical successor to Campisi. He scored many points in the mile run and was a member of the four-mile relay team.

Vincent Leatherby, another member of the 4-mile relay team, proved a valuable man to the Rabs in the half-mile run which was his specialty.

The distinction of being the only pole vaulter to score for the Rabs, and of being the best vaulter ever to represent Rockford goes to Chester Youngman. He scored in the conference meet at Rockford and the district meet at Dixon.



Track Lettermen

Orrin Nordstrom, the Rabs' only reliable weight man, placed in almost every meet in which he was entered. Although this was his first year of track competition, he performed like a veteran.

Leland Crandall was a dependable mile runner who scored important points for the Rabs. He was another member of the winning four-mile relay team at the Marquette Relay Carnival.

Of all the low hurdlers Frank Ditto was the Rab's speediest, and could always be relied upon for points. His high school career was climaxed when he finished second in the 220 yard low hurdles in the conference meet.

Stephen Scott, high jumper and sprinter, was always off with the sound of the gun, his quick start being his biggest asset. He was a member of the relay team which finished second in the conference meet.

Eugene Robinson is the only colored track man that Rockford has had in recent years. His main event was the broad jump, although he also scored points by his ability as a javelin thrower.

Charles Mahlburg specialized in the javelin throw. He surprised everyone by winning third in the discus and first in the javelin throw at the Big Six conference meet held in Rockford last June.

Track Squad

Coach Beyer, Weld, Mahlburg, Cummings, Leatherby, Dennis, Nordstrom.
Wadsworth, Muir, Robinson, Captain Kindstrand, Crandall, Scott, Ethridge, Shaw.
Galaway, Berglund, Brown, Youngman, King, Campisi, Ditto.

Track Season—1929

Twenty-one students including Leo Campisi and Chester Youngman, lettermen of the previous year, 1929, answered the call for track candidates issued by Coach Charles A. Beyer directly after the holiday season. Later the squad was bolstered by Carl Kindstrand, captain-elect, and several other members of the basketball squad.

The National Indoor Interscholastic meet, sponsored by Northwestern University was the first to be entered by the Rabs. Leo Campisi placed third in the mile, but due to an oversight by the judges, his name was omitted from the final list of winners.

An invitational meet organized by Coach Beyer was abandoned when heavy rains flooded the track, making it unfit for running. Therefore, the outdoor season was officially opened April 23, by a dual meet with Rochelle in which the Rockford team won 91 to 40.

The following Saturday, at Madison, the squad competed in the Mid-West Relay Carnival. Carl Kindstrand placed fourth in the hundred yard dash and the distance medley relay team finished in a like position. Freeport was defeated in a dual meet 69 to 62 on May 1.

Three days later the team entered the Marquette University Relay Carnival and gathered a total of 16⅓ points to warrant them fourth place in the meet. Kindstrand finished second in the hundred; Orrin Nordstrom, fourth in both the shot and discus; Youngman tied for second in the pole vault; and a relay team composed of Leo Campisi, Clyde Salaway, Vincent Leatherby, and Leland Crandall finished first in the National Four Mile Relay division. Salaway lost one of his spiked shoes during the race but grittily finished the last lap in splendid time.

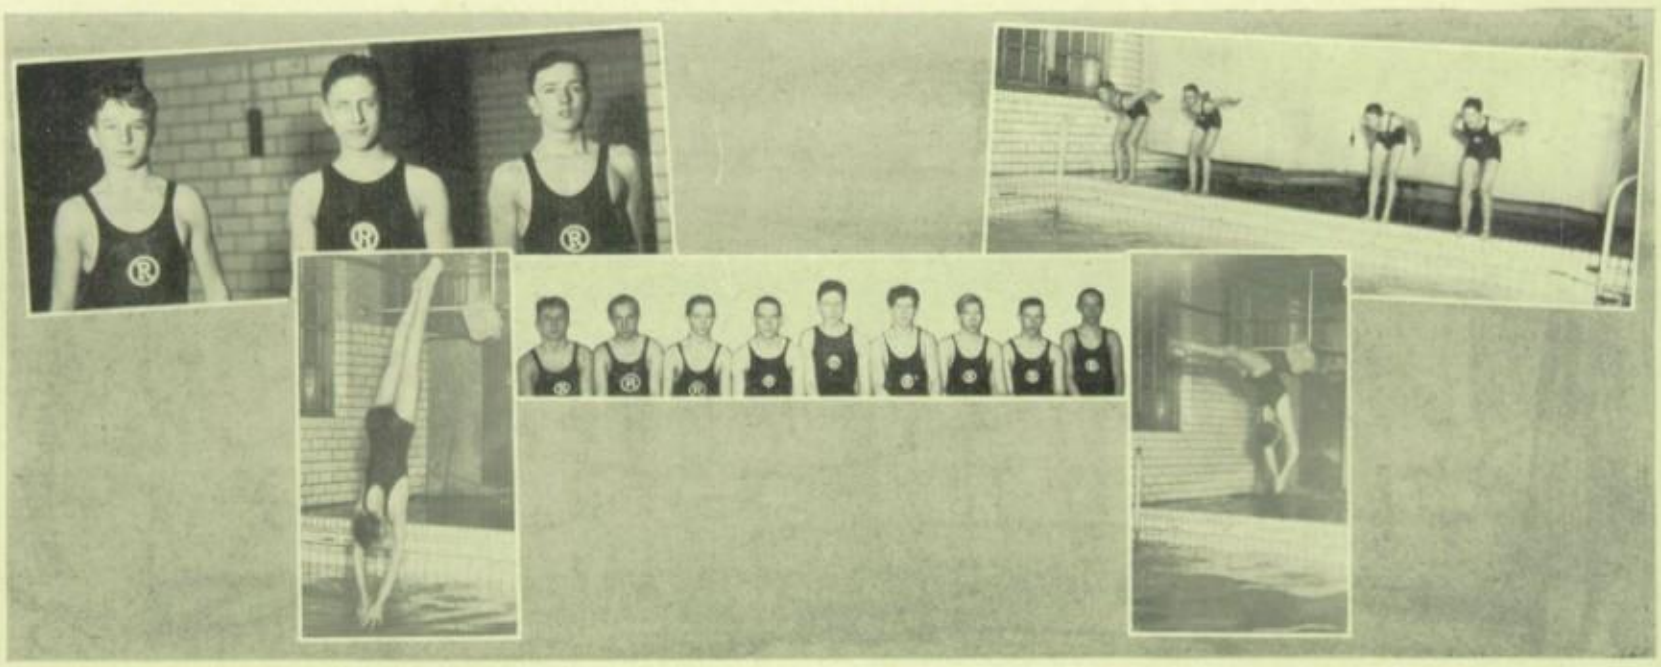
Rockford won the Dixon sectional meet for the third consecutive year with a total of 58 points and thereby qualified for the state meet. The meet was run off in a sea of mud on a track that was covered with from two to four inches of water. At the state meet held at Urbana, Leo Campisi placed second in his division of the mile event. Kindstrand qualified in the fifty, but failed to win a place in the finals.

Coach Beyer's entire squad was used in the Big Six Conference Meet held at Rockford. The meet was won by the opportune points garnered by Charles Mahlburg in the field events. Renterof, Joliet, broke three existing records in the shot, discus and high jump, and was the second high scorer of the meet, Captain Kindstrand being the high scorer. Rockford's points totaled 48⅔.

Part of the squad journeyed to Iowa City the next Saturday and scored twenty points in the Iowa Interscholastic meet.

A 75½ to 55½ win over Elgin in a dual meet completed a successful season. Swen Berglund, a freshman, won the Pentathlon held for members of the squads. The final event, an interclass meet, was won by the graduating class.

swimming



George Bononas was a backstroker in the meets, having entered the fifty and one hundred yard races. He was also a member of the relay team.

Winston Saaf won his swimming "R" through his work as a back stroke swimmer in the fifty and one hundred yard dashes. Saaf also proved himself adept in the relay team.

Captain Fred Beyergo was the high point man on the Rab swimming team during the past season, having led his mates in all the meets. Beyergo excelled in the free style one hundred, fifty, and two-twenty yard sprints. The captain is also a valuable member of the relay team. Beyergo was unanimously elected captain of the team, casting the only opposing vote himself.

Swimming Season 1930

Without a single letterman available, Coach Charles A. Beyer, put in an early call in December for swimming candidates. A number of boys who had had some previous experience in Junior High school swimming competition answered the call. This group of boys under the efficient coaching of Mr. Beyer, turned out a good swimming season record.

In the first meet which was with the LaSalle-Peru High school the Rab tankmen won easily, copping a first in every event. Robert Knight, a sophomore diver, showed good form to capture first place in the diving event. Fred Beyergo led the swimmers by scoring a first as well as being a member of the relay team.

William Scheerer, a senior, was the best breast stroke swimmer on the team this last season. Scheerer was on the swimming squad last year, although he was unable to win the coveted letter.

Robert Knight was an understudy of Anton Kukas, the Rab star of last year, in diving. This year, he has proved himself of value to the team as a diver. Along with Beyergo, Knight was the only one who passed the high qualifications for the National Swimming Meet at Evanston.

Alex Semenchuk, a sophomore, was the only consistent free style distance man on the team. Semenchuk was also on the relay team.

Swimming Season 1930

The third meet of the season was with DeKalb High school, which the Rabs also won. They were led by Semenchuk and Otto Hallden, who took first place in the diving event in this meet. This occurrence showed that the competition for a place on the Rab team was keen and very close.

The Rabs met La Salle-Peru in a return match at La Salle and again defeated that team. The team as a whole functioned in good order.

Two of the national leading swimmers were entered in the meet at Northwestern university, March 22. Robert Knight and Fred Beyergo, R. H. S. representatives competing against the best swimmers in the middle west, failed to score in their respective events in this outstanding meet.

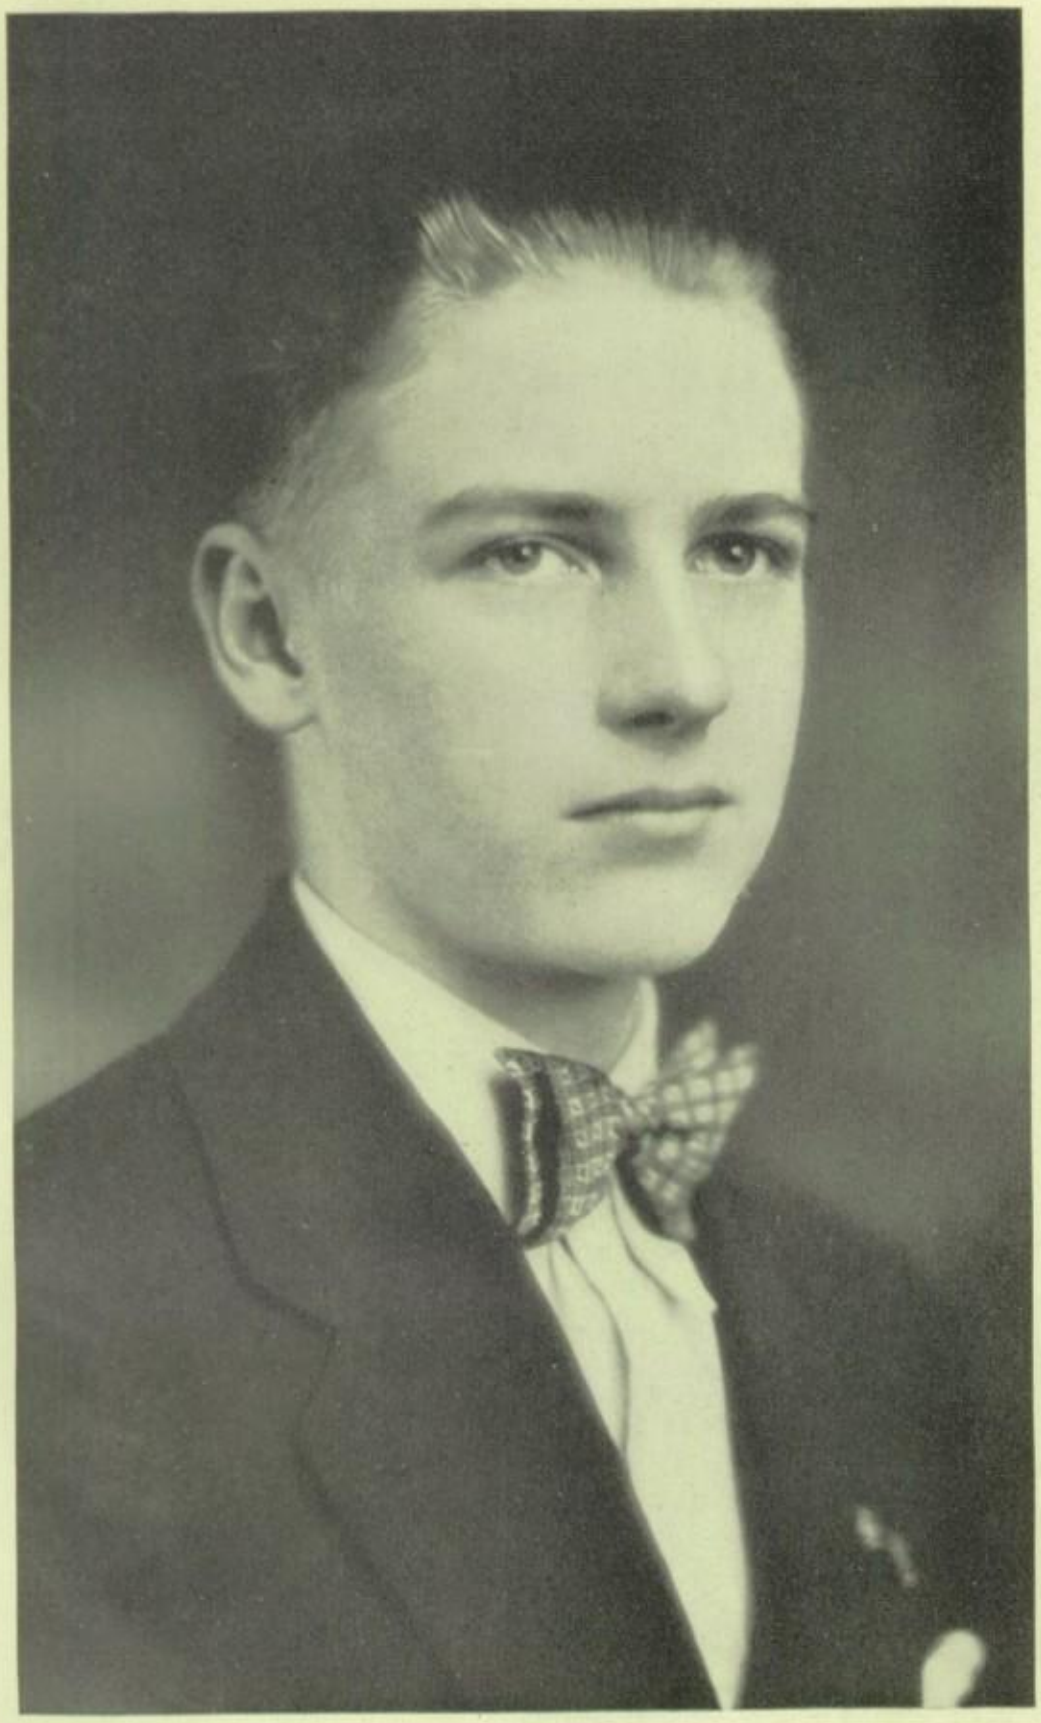
Now we see the faces of the girl swimmers, who are in a different position, ready for the breast stroke. In the picture above they were in position for the side stroke. Good, aren't they?

Glorify Work

One's work is not so difficult to do,
If he will do his given tasks each day,
And do them well and with a spirit which
Can make his job a joy to work upon:
For work can be whatever one may make it,
A joy or just a drudgery to know,
To glorify one's work brings happiness,
And molds a life of joyful memories.

Julia Joslin



CHARLES TULLOCK, well known senior, was elected by his class as one of the boys who works the hardest. Charles is sports editor of the Owl and president of the Chemistry club. He is a member of the Hi-Y club of the National Honor society and the Quill and Scroll.

MAXINE OLLMAN

was chosen as one of the hardest working girls in the senior class this year. Maxine has been very active in many clubs and organizations, having been vice-president of the A. B. L. society, secretary of the 8-5-3 club, president of the Chemistry club and in charge of the senior section of the Annual.

Glorify Work

Work is glorified by the wholesome effect it has upon human lives and human happiness and upon conditions contributing thereto. Whether it be by hand or mind, work is the greatest factor in the general welfare of humanity. There is none other that provides the satisfaction and contentment that is found in steady work. There is no greater preventative or cure for evil than plenty of work. Idle hands breed disorder and discontent. The common idler who scarcely does enough to maintain his own existence becomes envious or bitter toward those who are regularly employed at labor, business, or profession, and develops a disposition which is detrimental to himself and to society at large. Another class of idlers, who would be better off if put to work, is that made up of the people who have all the necessities of life and many of the luxuries and who do not work because they don't have to. These people eventually become bores to themselves and disgusting to those about them, thus creating an unhealthy condition in society.

Work is further glorified by the marvels it produces. It assists nature in the production of the substance for the sustenance of life. Every provision for our convenience, comfort, pleasure, recreation, health, and progress is the result of the long, hard work by hand and mind.

English department of Rockford Senior High school has added this year an organized course in journalism in place of 10B English. This new course gives an opportunity to anyone interested in journalism to have a whole year of this work and get credit for it.

The composition courses have been reorganized to emphasize correct usage rather than principles, with an especial stress on originality in expression and correctness in form.

Advanced dramatic art class produced "As You Like It" for the 10A classes. The characters in the play provided for their own Shakespearean costumes.

"It is pretty generally conceded that the proper method of teaching is to present the facts and let them be worked up according to the capacity of the minds that work upon them," said a well known professor.

In accordance with this idea, three different types of classes are arranged. There is a class for the pupil who is slow and needs special help. Then there is a class for the pupil of average ability; and also one for the interested pupil who wishes to derive all the possible benefits from the course.

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT

In February, 1930, the first class of half-time co-operative industrial students, with a membership of twenty-eight, was graduated from Rockford Senior high school. This course, introduced two years ago, makes it possible for many boys, otherwise unable to attend school, to work and study alternately.

Besides other interesting projects carried out in the machine shop, a valve-grinding machine was made by the members of the class. The second semester auto shop students were taught the process of welding. Heretofore, the welding has been done by the instructor only, but its being taught to the boys makes this course complete.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Due to the investment of $6,200 which the Board of Education put in equipment for the high school band, that organization has been able to purchase new instruments and also a complete musical library of band music. A more extensive practice program has been arranged for both band and orchestra, each section being able to practice separately and, with the others, once a day.

Once a week the orchestra members listen to the radio program by Walter Damrosch and his Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

For the first time, a boys' chorus has been started in Rockford Senior high school, accommodating boys with both changed and unchanged voices.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Due to the better facilities, the swimming pool has been open to a larger group of girls this year, the 10A classes being permitted to take the course. Hygiene lectures and physical examinations have been given to the 10B classes which have formed volleyball teams, conducting a regular tournament.

The boys' instructors in the physical education department have stressed the various sports in their classes. Those boys who showed ability in certain sports were chosen to represent the school on the regular swimming, basketball and track squads.

In 1929, a spring exhibition was given to show the work of this department.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT

One of the most important parts of the instruction in the military department was the requirement of accuracy and precision in details, as details play an important part in the success or the failure of any project. Therefore, the achievement of precision in the execution in small matters is very desirable and can be looked upon as an important factor in the training of an officer. A higher standard of rifle marksmanship was also required. In order to attain this, more individual instruction was given. Accuracy in drills of the soldier, squad and platoon were stressed. The aim was to produce not only experts but also men able to instruct others efficiently.

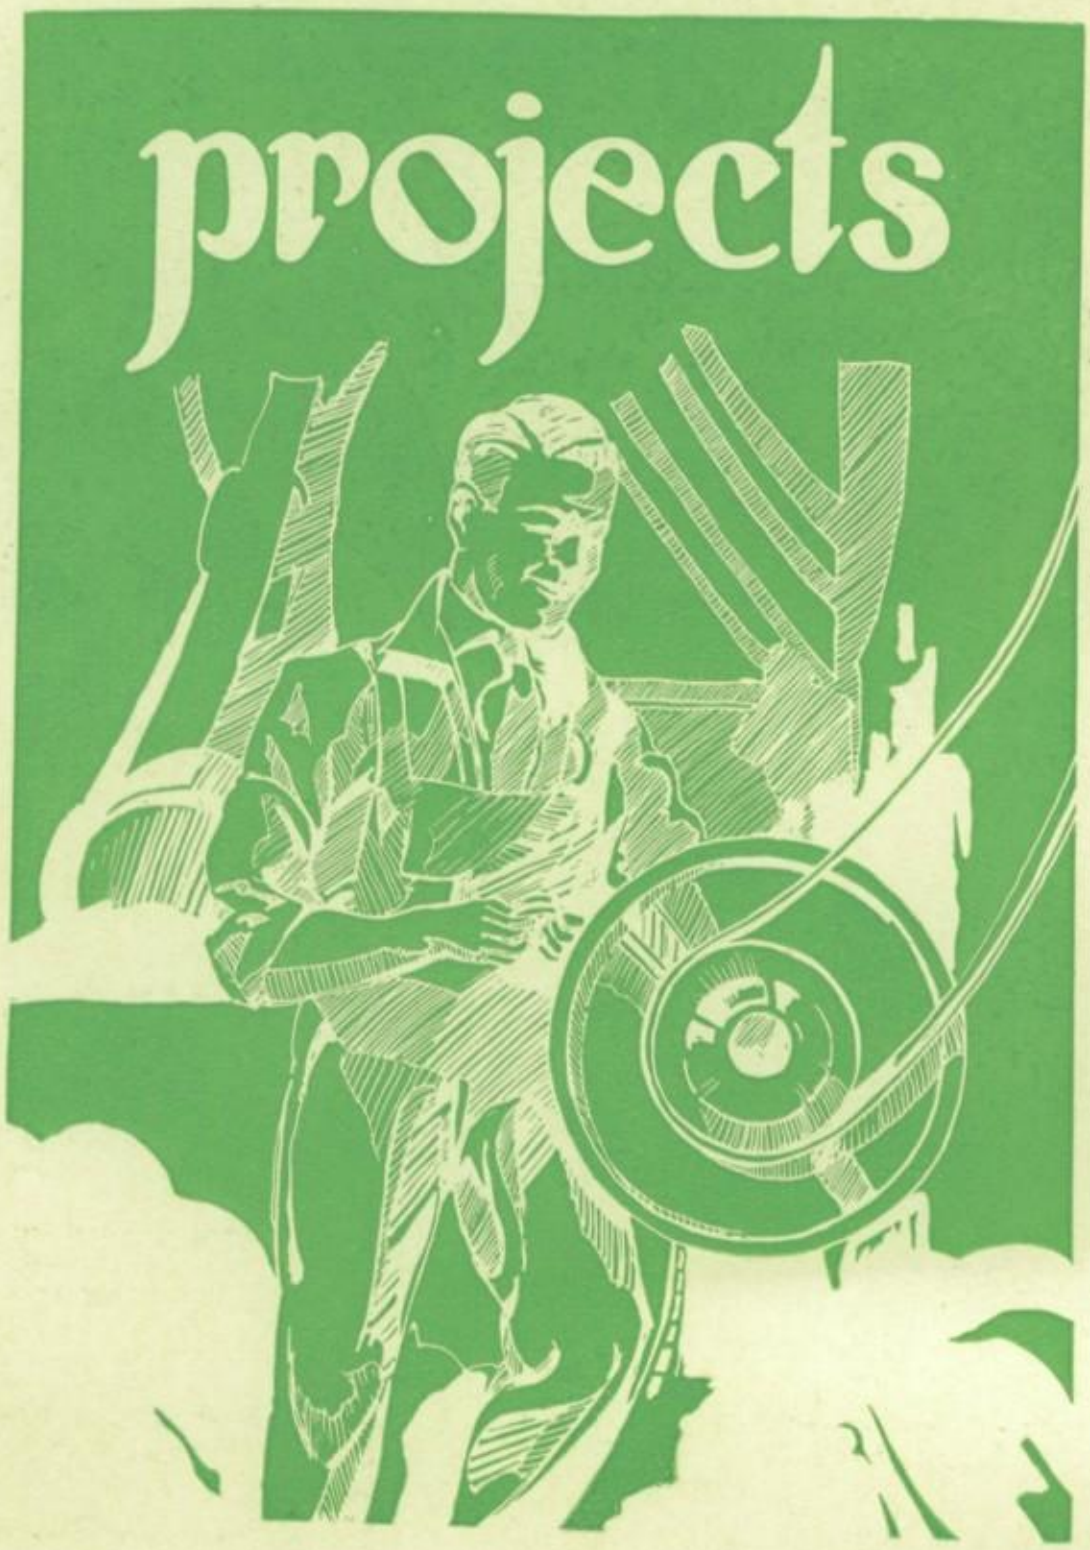
Above all other achievements in the Board of Education's work of the last year, Frank A. Jensen, Superintendent of Schools, ranks the development of a new school building program for the city of Rockford. This plan is very significant from the fact that it will have its effects for many years to come.

The second semester of the year 1929-1930 brought two additional successes to the Board of Education. First came the instituting and putting into operation of a new teachers' salary schedule. Along with this, came the completion and formal opening of the R. K. Welsh elementary school for the children of the north end. This school, one of the finest of its type anywhere, has been needed long.

In addition to this strenuous program, the board in the last semester, has been stressing the landscaping and beautifying of the school grounds of the various schools of the city. Last year the grounds of Lincoln Junior High school were landscaped and citizens of Rockford were so well pleased that similar action has been taken in various sections of the city. Considerable sums of money were expended both in the spring and summer months toward beautifying the grounds about the various educational institutions.

projects



Mr. Henry Rickert's Salesmanship class and some volunteer workers were very successful in obtaining advertisements for the 1930 Annual. Opposite are shown some of the most successful members of the class and also Mr. Rickert. The goal which they wished to reach was set at 350 subscriptions. At the time this picture was taken the annual staff workers had obtained 136 subscriptions.

Opposite is a group from Miss M. Pierce's life saving class who are working for their junior life saving badges. All girls between twelve and seventeen years of age are working for junior badges, and those over seventeen for senior badges.

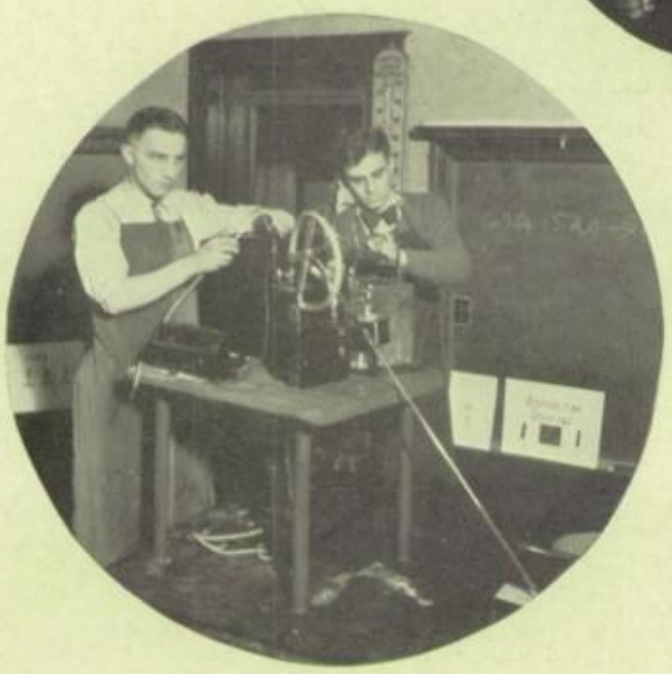
Yes, the chemistry classes are making a doll house. Harold Hanstrom is the industrious person who has made the model building, being very careful that everything was fashioned to scale.

Above is shown a group of girls who participated in the clothing exhibit of the year '28 and '29. Each of these girls is wearing a dress that she made while in school.

This clock will soon be ticking merrily in Gordon Hoffman's home. Gordon has been making this masterpiece in one of the industrial classes under Mr. Shumway. We would all say that Gordon has had to do a lot of work, but he certainly has made something of which to be proud.

Members of one of Miss Amy Hollem's 11A classes made the American literature book which is shown in the hands of several of the students. The book contained several of the American authors and pictures pertaining to their lives and works.

Click, click, click! These girls have made the typewriters and their fingers go fast and furiously to win typing awards. They are members of Mrs. Lucille Burgoon's and Miss Alyce Gilbertson's classes.



Morris Peterson and Peter Coffus were successful in making the pictured apparatus, an actually working model, which may be used for the manufacture of commercial gas. The products derived from it are coal tar, ammoniacal liquor, coke, and fuel gas. There are seven outstanding parts to the full equipment. On May 2, it was on display at a Chemistry exhibit of Commercial projects at the University of Illinois.

Have a Heart! No, these posters are not sandwich advertisements, but the winning community fund posters that were made by members of the art class. The charming miss is Josephine Armstrong. The boy next to her is Earl Wells, and Franklin Stolp is on the right.

A student of Miss Mellie John's 12B English class, Guy Gilbert, is shown finishing an illustration in colors on the blackboard in room 209. He is putting the finishing touches on the excellent portrait of Chaucer. To the left of this he drew a scene from the "Canterbury Tales."

"Suppressed Desires" is the name of a play which some of the members of the Dramatic Art II class were presenting when the staff's photographer dropped in. This presentation was put on as a class project under Miss Edna Youngquist, dramatics director.

Three international boy orators visited school and spoke for us in a most interesting Assembly.

The salesmanship class of Mr. Henry G. Rickert worked very hard to secure ads for the Annual.

Several of the high school girls worked on the switchboard the last two semesters; that is, they worked their vacant hours just for the experience it gave them. This picture shows Marion Rose sitting at the switchboard, and one of the office clerks, Helen Youngberg, at the typewriter.

For the second time in the history of the Rockford R. O. T. C., Col. A. V. P. Anderscn inspected the High school corps in their annual honor inspection last spring.

Mr. Wolfe, the school engineer, is a very busy man. He takes care of the supply of heat and the clocks.

Before you is the scene of busy fingers decorating for the A. B. L. party, given December 15. As you see it now, you might call it a mess, but within three or four hours quite a change was made. Martha Castle, former president of A. B. L. is standing in the foreground managing; Martha Blomgren, present head, is standing a little to the right, holding a conversation with Martha Westerberg who doubtless has some good ideas.

Be Happy

A happy heart spreads sunshine round about.
Just like the candle in a darkened room.
It not alone finds joy in being glad.
But spreads the glow to other hearts also.
So let the sunshine hid within shine out:
Life will be happier than it was before
Greet everything that comes with sunny smile.
Be happy! Thus is learned the world is good.

Donovan Pratt

JACK GARNHART, captain of the lightweight football team during the 1929 season, was elected by the members of his class as the happiest boy in the class.

Jack has been active in his school career, serving as president of the senior class in the second semester and as an active member of the Rab Authors and Hi-Y clubs.

JANE McFADYEN,
associate editor of the Owl, because of her ready smile and cheery hello for all those she meets, was chosen as the happiest girl in the class of '30. Jane has been always very active in clubs, having been treasurer of the A. B. L. and a member of the National Honor society.

Be Happy

On the Social Calendar are dates when "the Play's the thing"—as Junior first semester and Senior Play in June; there appears "Music, friend of Pleasure, Wisdom's aid," in Operetta, and in Concerts by Band and Orchestra; for joy in physical prowess, Football, Basket-ball, Athletic Meets of various sorts are scattered here and there; now a Picnic comes so we may "all the pleasures prove, that hills and valleys, dales and fields, woods or steepy mountain yields"; there are Banquets wherein the eloquence of toasts is spiced by gustatory joys and pleasures of the palate; Debates "mix reason with pleasure and wisdom with mirth"; often a date marks "the Dance, when Youth and Pleasure meet, to chase the glowing hour with flying feet."

As Vergil truly says, "His own especial pleasure attracts each one," so we date on our Calendar numerous Clubs that each may choose as he will:

History in 8-5-3,
Athletics in Amazon, Red and Black,
Philo, Rab Authors, and A. B. L. for literary work,
Paint and Palette, Walter Hampden—aesthetic aids,
Inquiring minds—Biology, Chemistry, Radio,
New business help through Commercia,
Enrichment linguistic—French, Spanish, and Latin,
Seco for household arts,
Song birds in Girls' or Boys' glee clubs.

Does our Social Calendar help answer the appeal of Browning, "O make us happy and you make us good"?

Hazel G. Putnam.

The Philo club held the 1930 banquet in the high school cafeteria. The boys spent a very enjoyable evening with Mr. A. V. Essington as the speaker of the evening. The following officers were inducted at this banquet: Thomas Lindley, president; Albert Early, vice-president; Carlton Page and Robert Schmeling were also officers of the club.

The Chemistry club held a Hallowe'en party at the cottage of Martha Castle. The pleasure seekers first engaged in a treasure hunt, climbing trees and moving logs to find the hidden treasure. After the treasure had been found and distributed among the winning team—and to others—a supper was served.

Opposite is a picture of a group from the Rab Authors' club, which took part in the Annual assembly at which several clubs contributed five minute sketches. The club presented a humorous sketch called, "The King's Breakfast." Julia Joslin took the part of Queen; Donovan Pratt, of King; Josephine Armstrong was the gentle maid that tried to milk the friendly looking cow.

A. B. L. banquet is an annual occurrence, being given after each informal initiation. The new members go through the formalities of a ritual in which the club officers take part. At the one pictured above, the initiated girls were made to eat their food with the help of only a knife. One of the items of fare was peas.

The Reverend Axel Pearson of Evanston, Illinois, spoke at the Memorial Day assembly program, May 27, 1929. The senior class sponsored the special program as one of their farewell tokens of appreciation of the school. Morey Mosk and Principal Blue are pictured with the speaker... Morey, who was the senior class president, was the chairman of the assembly program.

Here is a picture of some members from the Owl staff who took part in the annual assembly. These students performed a remarkable operation upon Old Man School Spirit. Josephine Armstrong acted as nurse and Leland Crandall was the doctor. The patient was Darving Skogstrom, the smallest member of the above group, feeling better after he had been relieved of some of the articles shown wrapped around his neck.

On January 20, the annual band banquet was held in the cafeteria. Richard Paget acted as toastmaster at the affair and Mr. William D. Knight was the speaker of the evening.

In the insert is Mr. June E. Bornor who, through his splendid vocal qualities, won the job of leading the assemblies in singing. His favorite song is "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," as every student knows from experience.

Mildred Pahaly, the charming miss in the picture, has appeared on many assembly programs as Mr. Bornor's accompanist.

"Seventeen" was the name of this year's junior class play which was presented by the members of the class of '31 on November 22 and 23.

Can't you just hear the happy voices of these young people who attended the senior party on February 14?

Favorite Sayings of Teachers

By Kalen, Pearson, Blomberg, Atchison, Fowler

These "various and sundry" —by the way, Miss Putnam has added that expression to our vocabularies, and we hardly blame her for using it so often, because we like to use it ourselves, "various and sundry." Well, what we started out to say was that these "various and sundry" statements we intend to set forth, will not, we trust, give offense to their "various and sundry" owners.

"Everybody makes mistakes." Look at Mr. Tjaden, for example. Well, we don't mean that he is a mistake exactly, but that is his favorite alibi when some of his mathematcial solutions aren't just what they ought to be. According to Mr. Tjaden, there are three great men who have their birthdays in February. I am sure that you can't possibly imagine who they are, so I will most obligingly tender you all this—important information—.

There's George Washington; of course; then Abraham Lincoln, and last but not least, our esteemed Mr. Tjaddn.

Then there is Miss Walker. "The pot can't call the kettle black." It's just like tweedle-dee-dee and tweedle-dee-dum." We would gladly explain to you the meaning of this clever remark if we had a little more time and if we knew what it meant ourselves.

While I am about it, I may as well warn you juniors about that English IIA teacher who fixes her stern eye upon you and declares, "When I was a girl, I had my lessons every day. Why, I wouldn't think of coming to class without having made an attempt at least to get my assignment."

Yes, you have guessed it, middle building, room 324.

Then there's my reason for writing this particular piece of literature today instead of tomorrow; in fact, the only reason for all is Miss John's, "Do what you're told to do and do it on time."

The next victim of the all powerful judgment of the students is the teacher who is known only to the girls—Miss Currier. Make a mental picture of her as she stands before her class with head up, arms folded, and feet apart, accusing us of being "a bunch of freshmen."

There is not a senior in this school who could have missed Miss Vincent's very well understood words, "I can't see why you people can't settle down to work." I suppose Miss Porter would answer her with the usual "There is a reason for everything." And then, Mr. Dudley might possibly take our parts by saying that there are two sides to every question.

Of course, the head men of the school have their favorite sayings as well as the regular teachers. Mr. Blue seems to be too fond of saying on Monday mornings after a very good assembly, "Assembly is dismissed." I suppose Mr. Conklin is almost forced to say, "After the books are stolen, the pupil goes and buys a lock for the locker."

Those of you who have ever had anything to do with publications will recognize the owner of the following motto, "Take nothing for granted; find out." This is probably what the person who hands his stories in after the dead-line thought he would do,—didn't know what would happen if he handed it in late so he thought he would try it and find out. A very good motto for everyone to take!

Mr. Beyer and Mr. Lundahl come in for their share of this theme with their sayings, "Do you want to see the hot tie I got for Christmas," and "Leave the girls alone."

Uow, just try to picture if you can gentle Mary Brown with a tomahawk in her hand, as she sits up there at her desk and says, "If you dare tell me that the Hudson River empties into the Hudson Bay, I'll scalp you alive!"

Then there are these foreign language teachers who are always saying something that no one can understand. Among them is Miss Brewer, who says something like this, "Oh, M'sell, set dough maj." From down there where it is the accustomed place for the Glee clubs to practice come Miss Dunton's low words, "I can't do a thing with this noise." Some of us in the rooms above would like to ditto her exclamation."

By Arthur Mapes

THE HIKERS

We, the members of the class of 1930, of the Rockford Senior High school of Rockford, Illinois, being of somewhat sound mind and fair memory and, considering that we will soon be leaving this said institution of learning, and will have no need of the following named items, do therefore make, declare, and publish this to be our last will and testament.

Firstly—To the Juniors, or coming Seniors, we hereby give and bequeath all our notes and information pertaining to one thousand word themes, along with all the Wrigleys adhering to the under side of the desk tops ni the Aud.

Secondly—We give to the seemingly unsophisticated Sophs a list of the most original and unfailing excuses, expressing our sincere wishes for their usefulness and success, in order that Mr. Maitland may get his much-needed sleep.

Thirdly—To the students in the Aud. we give the right to use all pennies, found in the Aud or the whereabouts, for the sole purpose of cultivating gray hairs on Aud teachers' heads.

Lastly but not leastly—We make and appoint Miss Ethel Vincent to be the executrix of this our last will and testament.

In witness whereof, we have subscribed and affixed our work and seal the twentieth day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and thirty.

Ladies and gentlemen, right this way! Here is a machine that sells itself. This machine was invented by Peter Judicki, is manufactured by the Kindgren-Gishwiller Company and is distributed by Keyes & Ulander. With this machine you can see and hear any person in the world. To prove the truth of my words, I will let you see and hear a few of the members of the Class of '30.

Harry Nelson, Wilbert Carlson, Bernard Abrams, Everett Kjellquist, Irving Stroberg, Irving Peterson, Harry Peterson and Everett Ahlquist are sailors on the S.S. Gilmore, of which Ethelyn Holzbach, Josephine Rozum, Marion Bjorklund, and Howard Lindstrom are still singing vo-do-de-o-do.

Jane Criddlebaugh is conducting a literary tour around the world. Among her followers are Frank Djielak, Eleanor Holmberg, Helen Alander, Millicent Fagerberg, Helen Peterson, Esther Nelson, and Harriett Lodin.

Willard Ohlson is the captain of a large fishing smack.

Emil Eliason and Viola Falconer are Tribune correspondents in Europe.

Albert Early is president of the Chicago Hair Pin Association.

Zanerian Taylor is an eminent violinist.

Virginia Peterson is the leading aviatrix of the world.

Fayne Faust is managing the Faust Choral Choir of which Juliette Whipple, Helen Eickman, Doris Pfau, Carolyn Stiles, Frances Shakotzus, Margaret Stearns, Florence Peck, and Irene Skoog are members.

Harold Blomquist is chief chef in a Chinese restaurant in Belvidere and his assistants are: William Clarke, Robert Barr, Garrett Wright, and Ray Johnson. Phyllis Overstreet, Mary Osborne, Gwendolyn Michale, and Janet Malstrom are waitresses in this cafe.

Arthur Janes spends him time explaining to Naomi Johnson what makes the world go round.

Professor Kenneth Wylie is composing a new way to translate Latin.

Anne Fredriksen is the promoter of the manufacture of "Blankets for Comfort."

Frank Fredriksen has written a new dictionary and now spends his time dodging students.

Mary Busavage is always dressed in the latest pink.

Mary Bacilek is studying old ruins.

Mildred Burd is teaching children to make friends of the dishes.

Judith Carlson is living a life of leisure with French books at her arm.

Harry Jones is wondering why girls carry lipstick.

Frances Anderson is looking for something at which to laugh.

Marion Newman is trying desperately to learn seven foreign languages at once.

Eleanor Olson is teaching music in Italy.

Lois Nordquist has won fame as the author of "Pals." Published by the Roy Nelson Co.

Fred Nokes is manager of a theater in New York.

Nels Nelson is conductor on a fast train.

Arthur Johnson is on the Big Six All-Conference football team as waterboy.

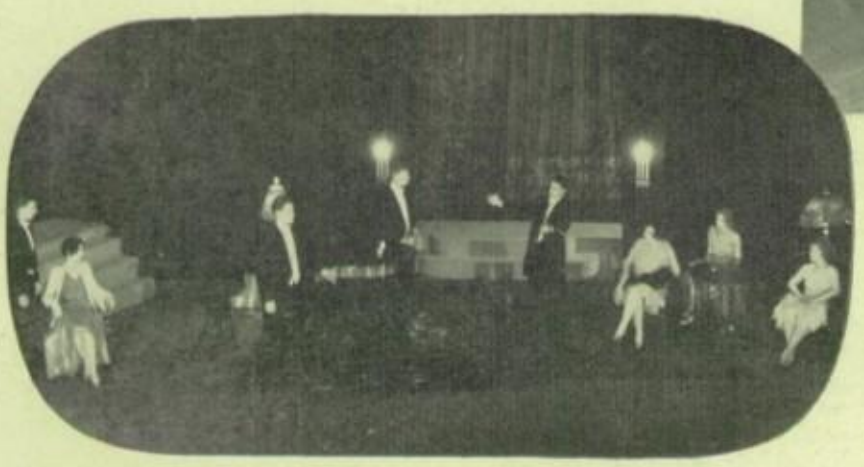
Jack Beynon was said by many to be the headiest quarterback of the conference teams. He always did the right thing at the right time.

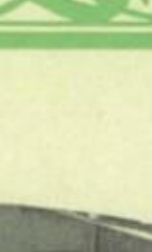
These are the three orchestras combined, the Roosevelt and Lincoln Junior High school orchestras. They came and played together for their own pleasure and to get the satisfaction of hearing so many instruments at once.

Below are a few band boys looking over new instruments which were obtained for the band.

A score from the senior play, "A Tailor Made Man," given in 1929. At the left is Helen Wonnell, who took the part of an accurate office girl. To the right is Burdette Anderson, leading man, with whom Morey Mosk, a young business man, is holding a conference.

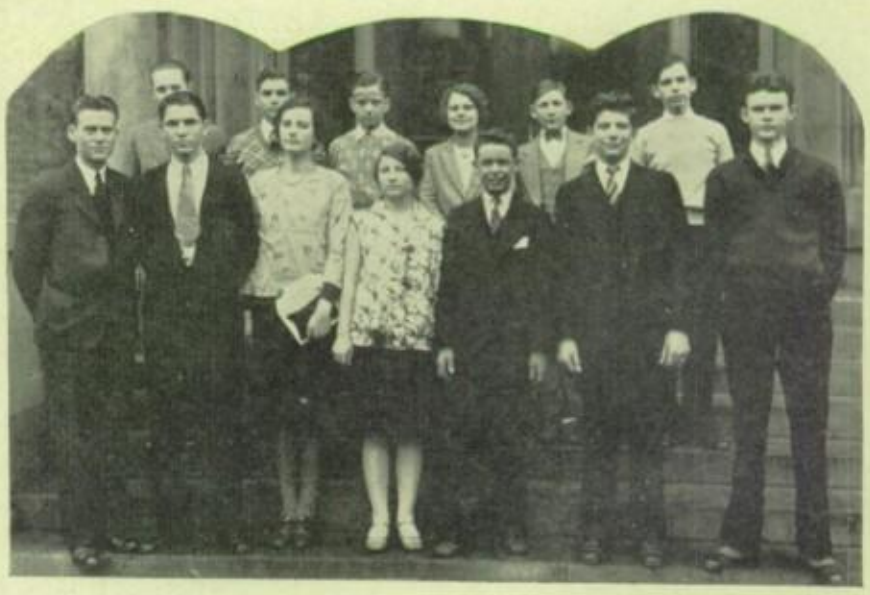


Here is the party scene of the senior play.



Here's a big catch! Sergeant Foutch caught this on a fishing trip in the North. Perhaps we are wrong about the kind of a trip it was, but anyway he came back with these.

No. Dick isn't looking for dew worms with which to play hookey and go fishing. He is looking for a specimen for science. From his earnest attitude one would think that he was surely finding what he was after.



Meet the Debate team: first team in the frcnt row and the second team in the second row. Coach Dudley is standing at the left. These teams with their coach worked very strenuously. Their days lasted until 5:30 always and often later.

Here is the band, and how proud all are of it! What a thrill a Rab student gets as he sees it marching down the field or street playing some brisk march whose melody continues to run through his mind hours afterwards.

"Barney," one of the football stars, is pictured here in full uniform and ready for work.

Another one of the football idols is Alex Yankus who is shown here ready to plunge into the enemy's lines. Imagine the chill of fear that must run down the spine of his opponent as he faces Alex across the line.

One of the companies of the Rockford High school R. O. T. C. marches in review down one of the city streets.

One of the most familiar entrances to Rockford Senior High school

What a help the school library has always been to the high school pupil, and what a relief to escape from that study hall teacher.

Remember these good old days last fall when the rooters went out to the stadium and watched the home team play football in all kinds of weather? Remember how they always cheered until their voices were hoarse? Those were the days! How dear to Rab hearts are such familiar scenes.

The Girls' Glee club won first prize for the annual assembly; all declared they deserved it for the good piece of work they performed. Didn't some of the girls make wonderful boys? Oh, yes, everyone admits the girls who played the parts of girls were very stunning too, but then, they always are that way.

Appreciation to the Patrons of the 1930 Annual

In the production of this year's Annual, the staff was confronted with numerous old problems in a new light. The method to be used in securing the financial support of the publication was one of the chief of these. In order to cope with the situation, a new type of advertising was inaugurated by the staff, consisting of a system of patrons for the 1930 Annual. This system had never before been tried in a Rockford High School Annual. Through the coöperation of a volunteer staff and the salesmanship classes, the plan was put up to the business men of the city. The response was most gratifying for all the sections solicited. We of the staff can only express our appreciation by advocating that the firms who have coöperated be requited with the patronage of the student body.

The success of the Annual each year depends to a great extent on the coöperation of various outside agencies. Chief among those to whom the staff is most grateful are: The Rockford Illustrating Company, Bliss Printing Company, The Rockford Commercial Studio, Herzog's Studio, E. W. Bredemeier (covers), and Mr. Henry Rickert and his salesmanship classes.

The staff also wishes to express its deep appreciation to the Campfire Girls of America who have so kindly allowed it to use their code as a plan for the book this year.

Here we have Rockford High school cheer leaders whose lusty voices are always heard on the football field or basketball floor at any game Rockford plays.

The annual junior - senior picnic is a red letter event every year.

Here are some gay tumblers in the Annual Assembly program.

The Boys' Glee club gave a very novel skit for their part in the Annual Assembly. From the expression on the little boys' faces, one would believe that they took their singing to heart.

The Freeport band is playing lustily for its football team, but R. H. S. won

This year the A. B. L. won second place in the Annual Assembly. Each girl dressed to represent some character in English literature.

One of the most interesting programs given in Assembly was the talk given by Mr. A. L. Flude, who has traveled very extensively all over the world. He showed us many costumes that he had collected in his travels.

This is not a game of "guess what." This picture of the Seco club is a sample of the initiation that takes place in the halls of Rockford High School.
